THREE MILLION GALLONS MISSING

FORT ST. JOHN (CP) — RCMP are investigating the theft of at least three million gallons of petroleum from the Pacific Petroleum plant at Taylor, 11 miles south of here.

Walter Pesehn, plant manager, said he became suspicious in September and contacted police.

Since then, he said, two undercover police officers have been conducting investigations. Last week, police moved in on a number of petroleum bulk dealers, service stations and trucking firms and seized records.

Police have confirmed an investigation was conducted and records were seized. No charges have yet been laid, but a RCMP source said arrests, may come within 10 days.

Thefts are believed to have been conducted over the past five to 10 years and could involve as much as seven million gallons of various fuels.

Marathon Session Winds Up

The legislature was prorogued at 6:03 p.m. Wednesday by Lieutenant-Governor Walter Owen, after the house gave final approval to legislation which will provide the province with government auto insurance next year.

Surgery Slated For UIC

OTTAWA (CP) — Minister Robert Andras Thursday announced major surgery for the much-maligned Unemployment Insurance Commission—a $14-million facelift to be implemented within the next six months. (See also Page 11.)

The reorganization, Andras said at a news conference, will decentralize the commission's operations, opening up 18 new UIC offices and expanding the facilities of 90 of the existing 298, without increasing the commission's staff.

The plan is designed to offer "more personal, sensitive and immediate" service to claimants and to inform people early of their rights and obligations under the program. To do this, Andras said, the UIC will divide the workload of each office so that one insurance officer is responsible for the whole of a claimant's contact with the UIC—from his application for benefits to its approval or rejection.

A system of emergency payments, available to claimants who might be forced to seek welfare assistance if obliged to wait for a regular cheque, is planned for by the end of August.

The department is conducting a study aimed at counselling disqualified claimants seeking to appeal to a board of appeal referees.

The UIC handles about 14 million inquiries a year, Chairman Guy Cousineau told the news conference. The government hopes to redistribute the staff in each office and reduce the number of claimants flowing to each office, particularly in major centres.

Andras said the reorganization of the commission will free benefit control officers to direct their energies toward proven cases of fraud.

NO PAPER

While British Columbians debate whether nuclear power plants are safe, Washington State is poised to begin constructing them just across the Strait of Juan de Fuca from Victoria.

The privately-owned Puget Power and Light company is about ready to begin construction of a nuclear power plant at Sedro Woolley, south of Bellingham and less than 50 miles due east of Victoria.

The government corporation, Washington Public Power Supply System, has announced it will construct two nuclear plants at Aberdeen, just a few miles down the coast on the Olympic Peninsula.

The Washington nuclear construction program follows a pilot project in nuclear power at Hanford in southeastern Washington near Richland.

James Klein, spokesman for the government power corporation, said the Hanford experiment has proved to Washington's satisfaction that nuclear power is both safe and necessary.

"We would have been in difficulties this past winter without the Hanford nuclear plant," he said.

"We had a power shortage in Seattle when the Columbia River went down. Fortunately we were able to divert surplus power from Hanford to the Seattle area."

Hanford is the only nuclear power plant operating in the U.S.-Pacific Northwest.

But it is only the beginning. Hanford has a rated capacity of 860 megawatts and plans are under way to upgrade it to 1,300 megawatts.

In addition, construction is already under way on Hanford No. 2, a 1,100 megawatt plant to come on stream in 1977.

Across the Columbia River, Portland will get Oregon's first nuclear power plant in 1974 or early 1975 when a 1,100 megawatt plant is completed.

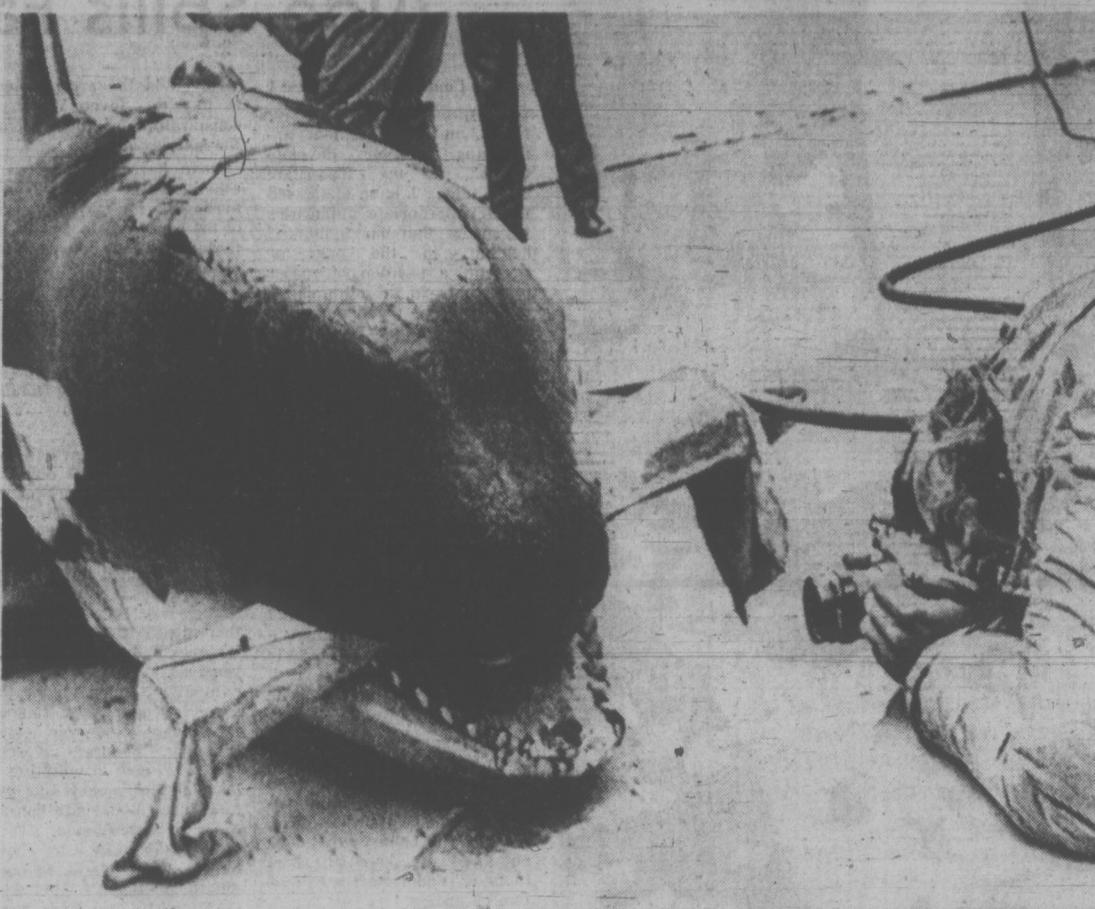

Closer to home, Washington is investigating sites for two nuclear power plants at Aberdeen, each with a capacity of 1,100 megawatts.

Both are due to be in full operation in eight years.

In nine years the nuclear power plant across the strait at Sedro Woolley is due to be in full operation.

"We feel nuclear power is safe and necessary," Klein said. "If anyone in British Columbia is interested in touring our Hanford plant they are more than welcome."

NEWS BRIEFS

MB Profit Up 100%

VANCOUVER (CP) — Macmillan Bloedel Ltd. today reported net earnings for the three months ended March 31 amounted to $17,962,981 or 86 cents a share, compared with $9,009,292 or 43 cents a share, during the same period in 1972 — an increase of 100 per cent.

Retiring chairman J. V. Clyne said sales and other income for the first quarter of 1973 totalled $271,385,000, compared with $209,421,000 in the first three months of 1972.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite opposition from the auto industry, the government announced today it will require 1974 cars to be designed so that the engine cannot be started unless the seat belt is buckled.

Hijacking Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — Second reading of a bill aimed at tighter security to reduce aircraft hijackings was the last thing the Commons did Wednesday before starting a 17-day Easter recess. The bill would make searching passengers and their luggage legal before they are permitted to board an airplane.

CIGARETTE AD BAN URGED

The legislature's standing committee on social welfare and education has recommended that a total ban be placed on advertising of alcohol and tobacco products in B.C.

In its report tabled Wednesday in the legislature, the committee, chaired by Rosemary Brown (NDP—Vancouver-Burrard) said such a provincial ban would be ineffective without an accompanying national and international ban.

Therefore, the committee recommended that the provincial government urge the federal government to establish a national ban and push for an international ban on the advertising of alcohol and tobacco products.

The committee recommended also that cigarette advertising in newspapers and magazines be required to carry prominent messages that "cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health has been determined by the national health and welfare department of Canada."

Association of cigarette companies with athletic events should be ended, the report said.

The committee said it did not agree with the argument put forward by advertising interests that advertising is geared solely to brand changes rather than to the development of new markets.

"This committee was more concerned by the growth in the number of young people who were beginning to drink and smoke than it was by the veteran smokers and drinkers cognizant of the fact that the young people were more vulnerable and susceptible to the wiles of advertising than were the veterans," the report said.

The committee also endorsed the recommendations of the Morrow Commission on liquor in the following respects:

—Advertisements should not encourage the consumption of alcoholic beverages, but only encourage preference of brands.

—They should not attribute qualities to beverages which imply health, nutrition, or other beneficial qualities.

—They should not imply that their consumption will lead to social success, business success, popularity with the opposite sex or escape from personal problems.

No Action On Fees —Barrett

The provincial government will make no effort to recover fees paid to auditors who checked the financial records of the B.C. Railway during the Social Credit administration, Premier Barrett told the legislature.

Pat McGee (L-Vancouver-Point Grey) had raised the issue during the day's question period, asking if the government intended to recover the fees since the provincial comptroller-general had reported to Barrett that restrictions had been placed on the audits by a former Social Credit cabinet minister.

Barrett said it was apparent from the report of J.W. Minty that Einar Gunderson, former minister of finance and executive vice president of the BCR, had restricted the efforts of auditors checking into the BCR books, but said it is not his role as premier to either seek to recover the auditor's fees or ask Gunderson for an explanation of his actions.

UP TO COMMITTEE

Any action which is taken will be up to the public accounts of the legislature, he said, which will be studying Minty's report along with the reports of independent engineering firms and auditors to be brought in — during the fall session of the legislature.

"We are making no judgments and no inferences," Barrett said of the government's action so far. "We're not looking to castigate anyone. We're just looking at the facts like the rest of British Columbia."

Barrett said he hopes McGee is not starting a "witchhunt" of the auditing firm used by the BCR. If McGee wants to register a complaint with the B.C. Institute of Chartered Accountants, he can do so as a private citizen, he said.

The firm used for the last audit of the BCR's books was Buttner and Chiene, with sole partner Doug Walker.

Barrett said the public accounts committee, chaired by Alex Fraser (SC-Cariboo), has the power to subpoena witnesses if it wishes.

Ottawa Has B.C. Views On Skagit

B.C. is still waiting to hear from the federal government regarding the province's opposition to the further flooding of the Skagit Valley, Premier Barrett told the legislature.

Responding to a series of questions from Liberal leader David Anderson, Barrett said B.C.'s position has been made clear to the federal government through Environment Minister Jack Davis.

He said he understands that Davis is in the process of setting up meetings with the Seattle City Light Co. regarding the flooding but that no word has come on dates of the meetings.

The premier said it is "protocol" to work through the federal government on international matters. Anderson had asked if B.C. had entered into negotiations with Seattle City Light over that company's intention to raise the level of the Ross Dam, causing further flooding of the Skagit.

Grit Welfare Plan Draws Wide Support

Times News Services

A generally favorable reaction across Canada has greeted federal proposals for overhauling the welfare system.

The plan released Wednesday in Ottawa by Health Minister Marc Lalonde would raise family allowances to an average of $20 from the current $7.21 but would make benefits taxable and, among other things, establish a guaranteed minimum income with built-in work incentives.

British Columbia Rehabilitation Minister Norman Levi said Wednesday he is pleased with the over-all package of proposals by federal Health Minister Marc Lalonde for revamping welfare plans, but he doesn't see why a two-year study is needed before the changes can be implemented.

Levi said the proposals should provide "some very interesting debate" when he meets Lalonde and his provincial counterparts in a three-day conference in Ottawa next week.

Many of the points outlined either have been proposed or are being implemented already by B.C., Levi said, adding: "It (the plan) certainly satisfies us and I am sure Mr. Castonguay (Claude Castonguay, the Quebec welfare minister) will be satisfied."

B.C.'s working poor will benefit from a form of guaranteed income starting June 1, when a plan for increased social assistance rates will include a provision that working people can receive a supplement to bring their income up to the minimum income level provided for welfare recipients.

USEFUL MODEL

Levi told reporters that scheme, together with the already-established $200 a month Mincome program for senior citizens, will provide a useful model for shaping an overall guaranteed income program which is certain to be adopted across the country within a few years.

He disclosed that one of the proposals in B.C.'s submission to next week's conference will be that the 50 per cent federal share of welfare programs remain at that basic level, but that it be increased to 60 or even 70 per cent for the "have-not" provinces.

The actual cost-sharing formula in such cases might be tied to such factors as the gross national product and the province's employment rate.

Levi said B.C. is a wealthy province and it is only appropriate that it propose a means of helping other less fortunate provinces.

"October 30th, 1972. What a difference that day made!" declared the NDP social welfare critic in referring to last election day when the Liberal government lost its House of Commons majority and had to start depending on his own party to stay in power.

Jungle or Mountain Peak?

Virtually everybody is in favor of adequate money for the poor, but the government party that provides it may come in for some strong criticism from the taxpayers who must supply the funds. Opposition parties, on the other hand, can enthusiastically laud welfare programs, knowing that they will not be blamed for introducing the measures or for any subsequent breakdown of the system.

Thus, the NDP and the Conservatives in Parliament have praised Health Minister Lalonde's new proposals to increase the family allowance to an average of $20 per child, establish higher pension and income maintenance rates, and sponsor other items designed to better the financial situation, not only of the poor, but also of numerous other sections of the public.

That is fair enough, in our times, when rapid escalation of prices, wages, grants and profits is being taken as normal, and only extreme increases now arouse attention. But the fact remains that two conditions must persist if generous welfare plans are to be carried out. The basic one is that the country's productive effort must remain high enough to support the programs. The other is that the middle and higher income groups will remain willing to put out extra working effort when the personal financial returns, due to heavier taxation rates in the higher brackets, will not keep pace.

The guaranteed annual income, at a rate to keep recipients in reasonable comfort, is the outcome of several decades of legislation which has supplied the needy with a gradually improving standard of living. Some of the plans now are universal in application — they reward the well-to-do as well as the needy. Taxation features ensure that people in the first category do not retain much benefit from a universal program.

The $20 family allowance payments, for instance, will be taxable — although the earlier Liberal practice would have left them exempt. The guaranteed annual income scheme should eventually simplify the whole income maintenance system. For the moment, the structure of payments is developing what Mr. Heath Macquarie, a Conservative spokesman in the Commons, warned could become a "welfare jungle."

Tying pensions to the cost of living is another effort to give the payments monetary reality in an inflationary era. But the whole panorama of government payments, at all levels, is itself contributing to the inflationary spiral. The government hopes to implement the new proposals over the next three to five years without appreciable tax increases for this purpose. Ministers are reluctant to put a figure on how much will be provided through added taxation. We shall know soon enough.

One thing becomes plain, however. If income maintenance and other plans are to become more extensive and better paid, there will have to be demonstrably stricter controls on abuse of the system. The public feeling of responsibility needs constant encouragement — and there is no better encouragement than knowing that no money is being wasted.

Irrational

The conflict between members of the militant American Indian Movement and United States federal officers at Wounded Knee this week reached a high point of irrationality. For 90 minutes, according to the Associated Press report, the two sides exchanged heavy gunfire. One of two Indians seriously wounded in the engagement was then brought to the federal roadblock and transported by helicopter to hospital for medical attention.

The exchange of gunfire marked the opposing sides as enemies. When a member of one group sustained serious injury, he was taken to the "enemy" for treatment. This may be a modern variation of Lincoln's injunction to "bind up the nation's wounds." But if one side has to depend on the opponent to render help to the injured, what's the logic in shooting at each other in the first place?

"... Harold ... I ... I can't believe it! Tell me I'm not dreaming! You're not watching the hockey! You came over to talk to me! Incidentally, who's playing tonight? ..."

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

Harbor

With reference to your article entitled "Erickson's Harbor 'Mickey Mouse'", I feel we should be thankful that we have at least two men in Victoria, Mr. Sims and Mr. Sherwin, with common sense regarding development of the Inner Harbor. Let us keep it as it is, a true harbor, with suitable improvements, and send the Vancouver architect back to Vancouver to carry on with his fancy ideas over there. We must not spoil Victoria as Vancouver has been spoilt. — L. S. K. C.

Examples

Being classified wrongly as a veteran perennial loser — citizens naturally ask why I offer myself to be again politically correct.

My reason this last time is thus: "I felt obligated to prove by quotes and thoughts why Victoria should have a ward system." And with the courtesy of the Editor give these examples to readers:

1—Politics seem to be the madness of many for the gain of the few.

2—That many of our City politicians have proved themselves geniuses in making politically right, that which is morally wrong — such as high-rises in wrong places.

3—That citizens turn out mostly to vote resentfully — not their appreciation — as evidenced by recent demonstrations in front of the Legislature, when wrong-thinking citizens tried to dispossess farmers ever have been, and ever will be, the backbone of any country — including Canada.

4—That popular opinion often proves itself "the greatest lie in the world." The Bennett government surely proved that.

5—That a popular politician too often becomes "more powerful than power itself."

6—That it is sad, that many political errors — such as some zoning laws — once adopted, becomes principles.

7—That the voter — who is not persuaded to act in unity for the common good — often hands over tyranny to the biggest financial deceivers. Our war-front fiasco is a classic example.

8—That most old-age misuse youth to make old age miserable. War, drugs, and teenage welfare-bums are prime examples.

9—That politics too often prove there are two types of elected officials — men of no principle, but of great talent, and men of little talent, but who excel as subservient yes-men to financial extortions.

10—That finally I am a perennial "winner," when my thoughts and predictions become too often so right ten years too late.

In grateful thanks to my loyal minority who persuaded me to run and express their healthy viewpoints. — W. A. (Bill) Scott, 1052 Newport Ave.

Apprehension

Obviously this is not a description of the Nader-type organization which Mr. Dodge has in mind.

There was formerly a strong opinion, certainly shared by prairie members of the NDP, that the "middle man" is responsible for price difficulties. Mr. Dodge evidently has reservations on this score. His text suggests a certain apprehension in CLC circles that a price crusade might be discomforting for middle unionists.

According to Mr. Lewis, the NDP wants a public body which will be far more effective than the "toothless Prices and Incomes Commission." It cannot be forgotten that the PIC was torn apart by the sharp teeth of the CLC. If Dr. Young's Commission, described by the CLC leader as "an academic exercise in public relations" was sufficiently threatening to justify the bitter attacks of the CLC, how can it be supposed that the Congress will look with favor on the Bennett tiger that Mr. Lewis, according to his speeches, wishes to impose on the Government?

From the very cautious observations of the Ministers, it is most difficult to believe that the Board will possess the savage qualities which Mr. Lewis imagines in his public statements. It will be a pleasant surprise if it accomplishes anything of value to inflation-ridden consumers. But it does seem to have created a problem for the NDP and its union supporters. Are they talking about the same Board or has there been some unfortunate failure of communications?

Sounding even more like a member of tion for, as David Lewis had pointed out at a public meeting only a few days before, the motion calling for establishment of a special committee to investigate rising food prices was moved by Grace MacInnis, the NDP's spokesman on consumer affairs, and accepted by the Government.

Noting that the CLC had made some suggestions for dealing with the problem, Mr. Dodge observed that "none of them was exciting enough to win plaudits from politicians who seem to assume that the electorate is made up exclusively of Women Against Soaring Prices and a complete absence of butchers, packing house workers, truckers, retail clerks and farmers, all of whom are just as entitled to fair incomes as members of Parliament."

Sounding very much like a member of

cabinet and not in the least like Women Against Soaring Prices (Mrs. MacInnis included), Mr. Dodge went on to say: "Main cause of the rising costs appears to be the current world wide demand for a number of commodities and the pressure on prices this creates. Wages in the food industry, although they have risen together with everything else, can only play a minor part in costs, since they only represent eight per cent of the total costs and since productivity in the meat packing industry has almost doubled in the past 16 years."

Sounding even more like a Minister, Mr. Dodge asserted: "Solution to the problem would consist of increasing the supply of the products most in demand, by shifting production and by improving productivity."

The message seems clear enough. The NDP, condemning Conservative suggestions as ineffective, is for a formidable Board capable of tough action on the price front. As for the minority Government, it has been placed on notice that it must deliver if it is to retain the support of the party holding the balance in the House of Commons.

On April 16 the Canadian Labor Congress distributed a release summarizing an address by William Dodge, its secretary-treasurer, on the same general subject. But the emphasis in the second report is rather different; indeed, the argument would suggest that it took Mr. Dodge some time to reach the matter of a Prices Review Board, toothed or otherwise.

The CLC advised interested readers: "A top labor leader today opposed boycotts as a means of bringing down the price of meat and warned they may actually result in higher prices of meat and other commodities." Mr. Dodge warned that "the long-run effect is to reduce supply once more to the point of scarcity and force the price up again."

Turning to the special committee which recommended the Prices Board, Mr. Dodge characterized them as "a group of politicians who are looking for villains" whom they expect to "publicly plead guilty."

This is a most uncharitable observaand accurate communications, maybe advance release of council business should be a regular feature with a regular spot in the paper and a special head easily identified by readers? — Interested.

Protein Factor

The present feeble attempts to control meat prices by boycotts is unlikely to be effective unless dire action is taken by governments. In any case, and irrespective of pricing, the future demand for red meat will exceed the supply unless we modify our dietary habits.

It is vital that we comprehend the environmental implications of meat production.

Many thousands of acres are used for grazing cattle, thousands of acres are also used to provide fattening grains and feed for cattle. Included in the feeds are the highly nutritious soya beans and great quantities of fish. In fact we provide nutritious food to cattle which should be supplied directly to people. This could help to alleviate much of the malnutrition and malnourishment suffered by two-thirds of the world's population.

Cattle are notoriously inefficient protein converters; they require 24 pounds of meat for every pound produced for human consumption. Swine need 11 pounds of protein for each pound of human protein; whereas poultry only require four pounds protein input for one pound of protein output.

It is imperative that we stop crying over the meat situation and begin to eat with environmental sanity.

This association recently presented a brief to the government in which we recommended among other matters that:

(1) The role of beef production be emphasized to permit the supply of rich protein foods directly to people rather than through the feed troughs and feed lots.

(2) Since there is evidence of poor nutrition-eating habits within the community, the government engage in a program directed toward raising the nutritional standards of the public.

(3) A Provincial Food Directorate be established, not under the jurisdiction of either the Department of Health or Department of Agriculture, and that this directorate shall be responsible for:

a. Recommending nutritional educational programs for the community at large, including schools.

b. Maintaining a constant surveillance of all food quality produced, processed, and sold to the public.

The government has taken commendable initiative in relation to future food production by the introduction of Bill 42. Now, we must earnestly anticipate not only new policies economically favorable to our farmers but some redirection of food production that will benefit the community at large. Food production methods and consumption patterns must be revised in an environmental context.

HUGH CURTIS
... work-for-welfare

17 years he has only met "about half a dozen people" who "wilfully will not work". Of these the nearest appear to be a trio at Sooke, and even of them one is some sort of backslider, for there are signs that he is at least contemplating tool.

Yet on another page of the same issue, the Saanich Council discerns at least 82 young stalwarts who feel no particular urge to work for their welfare cheques. Mayor Curtis, interestingly enough, is quoted as saying that the "work-for-welfare concept falls on deaf ears at the senior government level."

Readers wondering where the truth lies might recall the recent official investigation of UIC claims in a sample area in eastern Canada. It was discovered that two out of three were frauds, which might surely suggest, even to Mr. Lewis, that the attitude of something-for-nothing has infected a larger number of people than he affects to believe. But perhaps these racketeers, who were only exposed after persistent public protest, and who numbered by the government's own figures, not half-a-dozen, but many thousand, were all what Mr. Levi, extracting another convenient phrase from the social science textbooks, calls "socially disabled." — Derek Pethick, 5420 Alderley Road.

From The Times of April 19, 1913:

NEW WESTMINSTER — In the police court yesterday, Samuel Littel, the chauffeur who was driving the automobile last Sunday which overturned, killing Miss Carmen Hall, was fined $150 by Police Magistrate Edmonds for not reporting the accident to the police. The magistrate said a penalty was necessary to cause chauffeurs to realize their responsibility to the law. Littel said he had no intention of evading the law, but he had been in this country only a short time and did not know the regulations.

Newsman Niesewand escorted to court

MANCHESTER GUARDIAN, An Editorial

Two years' hard labor for stating the facts: our immediate reaction to the news of the sentence on Peter Niesewand, our Salisbury correspondent, was that it was unbelievably savage. On reflection we can find no better words.

His trial was held in secret so that neither we nor anyone without access to him can have any knowledge of the detailed charge or of the evidence. We had fully expected that if he were found guilty by the political standards of the regime he would be given a suspended sentence, deprived of his citizenship, and expelled.

Even now, with the prospect of an appeal, that is perhaps a realistic hope. But unless the appeal court finds otherwise Niesewand is sentenced to two years' hard labor, of which one year is suspended on the ironical ground that he acted openly and not in secret.

This is in addition to the indefinite detention order already in force against him, so that unless the Rhodesian authorities clarify what is happening there can be no certainty about how long he will serve.

Does Mr. Smith understand that, apart from anything else, the holding of secret trials is abhorrent to all the British and not just some of them?

In the Commons Alan Haselhurst said that the imprisonment of Peter Niesewand would mean that the terms of any conceivable British settlement with Rhodesia would never have to be much more severe than "anything that he has ever contemplated." Stephen Hastings said that those in Britain who have sympathy for Mr. Smith will have been deeply disappointed by what has been done to Peter Niesewand.

Both Mr. Haselhurst and Mr. Hastings are Conservative MPs. Until now neither was known for any special hostility towards Rhodesia. What Mr. Smith has done by having Peter Niesewand charged, tried and jailed in secret is to alienate the whole British Parliament before he has lost have a friend in the House. The Prime Minister could find no word to say in mitigation. The House agreed with Mr. Wilson when he said that "action of this kind is best designed to intimidate any journalist who wants to get out the facts about Rhodesia."

If Mr. Smith had friends in Parliament before, he has lost them now.

Salisbury is a small place where politics and the law, especially in Official Secrets Act charges, work hand in hand. On Thursday Mr. Smith announces in Parliament that he thinks a settlement can be reached and is about to try to reach it. On Friday a journalist admired for his accuracy and independence is given hard labor.

It is well that an outcry should be heard from Britain, not because Niesewand is necessarily faring worse than an unknown number of anonymous Africans to whom the courts mete out political sentences, but because Niesewand's case illustrates the nature of the system and brings it home more powerfully.

Even by Rhodesian standards the treatment of Mr. Niesewand has been incredibly inhumane. The minister who served the detention order (which preceded the secret charge) was a guest at his wedding, so he knows that Mrs. Niesewand has a young child to care for and is expecting another. Yet she is allowed to see him for only an hour a week.

During this separation and his own solitary confinement, Mr. Niesewand has evidently conceived fantasies about his wife's health — about her being involved in a road accident or about her having a miscarriage. And all this, it must be emphasized, because Niesewand did no more than a competent reporter should do — although he did it better than most.

The self-censorship (or failing that, official censorship) of the Rhodesian press secures that Frelimo's activities are not fully reported in Rhodesia. This dispatch may have caused the regime embarrassment. Yet Mr. Smith himself has since admitted that guerrillas have crossed the northern and north-east frontiers and has introduced drastic new laws, including collective punishments, to try to ensure that they receive no support from Rhodesian tribesmen. What, then, is the secret?

But even if this is the explanation, it is said by the Rhodesian regime to be unconnected with the reasons for his detention order. This merely cited the opaque words of the Act that he was "likely to commit or entice the commission of an act prejudicial to the public safety or to interfere with the maintenance of public order." Appeals lie against both the detention order and the court verdict. There can be little doubt of the agitation which both of these quasi-legal processes have caused in Britain.

Why is Mr. Smith frightened of Peter Niesewand? To give a man two years' hard labor for telling the truth is to confess to inner uncertainties which must be strong indeed, and disturbing.

Mr. Smith has gone now to the length of emulating the very people against whom he pretends to be protecting Rhodesia. ("Secret trials in Russia are what we have come to expect," said the Rhodesia Herald's acid editorial) and by doing so has alienated many friends.

There are many reasons why Mr. Smith is not fit to govern. One of them is his stupidity. Even his supporters in the South African government must despair.

Arms for Oil And Tyranny

THE NATION

Earlier in the year the Shah of Iran was "standing up" to the big oil companies and making headlines. With a population of 30 million, Iran produces some 4.5 million barrels a day, amounting to yearly revenues of about $4 billion.

He announced that he was not satisfied with the present level of production — he wanted it doubled, no less. This would entail a capital investment on the part of the companies of at least $2 billion, hardly a safe venture under present conditions, with perhaps worse to come.

The Shah was threatening complete nationalization by 1979, with the companies in the consortium relegated to the position of customers for the oil output, in what looks like a sellers' market.

Here, to a superficial view, was another case of the puppet threatening the puppeteer. The CIA had put the Shah in power. When Mohammad Mossadegh opposed him in the early 1950s, the Shah fled the country, and found it safe to return only when Allen Dulles deposed Mossadegh with the aid of $19 million distributed in the right places.

Though that was long ago, on closer inspection things are not so different now. The CIA, to be sure, can no longer engage in the rough stuff which was the rule in the fifties, and to that extent the puppet is no longer that much of a puppet, but deals can still be made when the right people are on hand to make them.

Like Richard Helms, for instance. Until recently he was head of the CIA; then it was announced by the White House that he would become ambassador to Iran. This seemed like an act of kindness; though shorn of power, a faithful public servant was rewarded with an ambassadorship.

But there was more to it than that. The Shah had attended the exclusive Le Rosey school in Switzerland, and he and Richard Helms had been classmates. Of course the old school tie could avail only so far, but Helms knew his way around in Iran, and in oil.

If the Shah's confrontation with the oil companies was not wholly phoney, neither was he biting the hand that had fed him — the hand of the United States. Not that, on his record, the Shah would hesitate to bite if such action offered him a real advantage, but the United States is by far the most powerful military nation in the world, and the chief arms supplier.

The Shah has agreed to buy between $2.5 billion and $3 billion in arms from Uncle Sam, and to pay cash on the oil barrel head — the biggest single arms deal ever arranged by the Pentagon.

This is convenient for both sides. It will help the United States in its chronic balance-of-payments problem. Second, it will help keep certain of our arms manufacturers in trim, now that they face some cutbacks in other directions.

It will do nothing for the Iranian people, whom the Shah will continue to rule as a feudal fief. The great majority of Iranians are desperately poor and some of them, university students in particular, are in a rebellious mood. When they are caught by the Shah's police they are jailed, tortured and put to death, depending on the enormity of the offence.

However, dissidents abroad are a long-term threat. In February a Republic of Iran was proclaimed in Washington by a Committee for Free Iran, whose demands include freedom of the press, freedom of assembly, freedom of speech, the end of the police state, and an end of the monarchy.

It is hardly likely that the Shah needs several billion dollars worth of arms to cope with his internal enemies, and the government in exile is not a formidable threat at present. But it asks awkward questions in its newspaper, Iran Free Press: "Why must a country like Iran, with a majority of its citizens impoverished and facing no real military threat from the outside, spend billions on armaments?"

The paper charges that any country with an investment in Iran can bleed the Iranian people and deprive them of the necessities of life. Moreover, the arms — fighter bombers, patrol planes, helicopters, etc. — can be used to establish the Shah as the master of the Persian Gulf, from which the British withdrew in 1971. With the arms supplied by the United States (some also by the British) the Shah can dominate the other oil-rich countries in the area, and the United States is apparently satisfied to see him establish himself in that role.

The Iranian students in the United States have no love for their ruler, and it is possible that they will try to give him a lively reception on his forthcoming visit to the United States. What with the U.S. Army, Navy, Air Force and the Marines: the CIA, the FBI, the Washington police, et al., the Shah has little to worry about.

Law and order will be maintained, we may be sure of that. But in the long run, the outlook for the type of government the Shah represents — and the United States supports — may be no brighter than that of similar tyrannies that have come and gone.

Marriage Is a Big Step

By GARY LAUTENS
The Toronto Star

Almost every day there's a news item in the paper that reads like this:

"London (AP) — Actor Lance Laquan has announced his engagement to Marsha Torrid, his constant companion for the past four years and mother of his two children. No wedding date has been set..."

Being old-fashioned, I can't help wondering how Lance popped the question...

"Marsha, I want to speak to you..."

"Not now, Lance, I've got to change the baby. He's really ripe."

"But this is important, Marsha..."

"So is a new diaper, Lance. If you want to talk, come into the bathroom. You can hold the pins for me..."

"It's not exactly what I had in mind but..."

"Lance, for heaven sakes, why are you down on one knee? Have you lost something?"

"No, I'm..."

"There, you've done it! You've boiled over on the stove. Let's talk in the kitchen..."

"Marsha..."

"Is meatloaf all right for dinner? The supermarket had a special on steak — $4 a pound! That's why we're having meatloaf."

"For heaven sakes, Marsha, will you sit still?"

"Don't forget it's our turn to pick up Zorba and her friends at ballet class. You should be leaving..."

"Damnit, Marsha, will you marry me?"

"What did you say, Lance?"

"I said, marry me."

"Lance, marriage is a big step. It involves responsibilities and commitment. I don't know if I'm ready for it."

"Marsha, marry me so I can take you away from... I mean, marry me so we can start... well, you know what I'm trying to say."

"Lance, let's sleep on it and talk it over in the morning."

"Hold on Lance. I hear something

NEW APPROACH TOWARD OBSCENITY

THE PROVINCE, An Editorial

The trouble with obscenity laws in the Criminal Code is that they tend to turn the courts into arbiters of public taste and morality, often at the discomfort of judges who feel incompetent to make such assessments. The B.C. Appeal Court's decision quashing an obscenity conviction against producers and performers of the play "The Beard" in Vancouver is therefore of vital importance to the approach to be taken by the courts in B.C. in the future.

Mr. Justice Nathan Nemetz described the play as repetitive to the point of dullness, obscene and written to shock. One of the scenes would offend many people. He didn't like the play.

But, he said, it's not the personal taste of a judge that determines whether a work is obscene.

"I do not understand the consideration of average community thinking to mean that writers are limited to the average person's conception of what should be published or performed or to limit a minority of theatre-goers to the kind of performance that a majority would think good for them," said Mr. Justice Nemetz.

This is a significant qualification of what has become the general ground for conviction in such cases. That is the test of whether the performance conforms to community standards. Community standards have always been hard to define. They change from time to time and from group to group.

In the main, judges who have convicted in such cases have done so in the belief that they knew what the standards were, often disregarding the opinion of witnesses of the trial. Mr. Justice Nemetz said the county court judge who convicted "The Beard" had rejected "uncontradicted evidence of all the defence witnesses."

But Mr. Justice Nemetz's

judgment seems to go further. It suggests that even if community thinking could be defined it should not restrict a writer's or performer's opinion of what is fair and reasonable to write or perform.

Judges can't be blamed for the difficulties that have sometimes arisen in the interpretation of the code, which doesn't define "an immoral, indecent or obscene performance". They've tended to rely on their own judgment.

Mr. Justice Nemetz suggests they should be wary of allowing personal taste to influence them and they should be careful not to base an assessment of a work on some notion of what an average person might think.

No doubt obscenity cases will continue to present difficulties for the courts because of the problems of definition. But the Appeal Court's decision is a valuable guide-mark for the future.

Governments Blasted

VANCOUVER (CP) — J. P. Nowlan of Halifax was installed as president of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy at the 75th anniversary convention Wednesday.

Earlier, in a speech to delegates, he blasted governments who hazard the future of the entire mining industry by "unwise decisions." Nowlan later said he did not have any specific target in mind. Leo Nimsick, British Columbia mines minister, was in the audience for the speech.

No Blame

SMITHERS (CP) — A coroner's jury Wednesday attached no blame in the death of Donald Austin, 43, a Hesquiate Indian who died Feb. 3, the day after he was discharged from Bulkley Valley district hospital.

The jury ruled that it was an unnatural death, caused by oedema, a swelling of the brain and lungs. They decided the conditions that caused death were an overdose of prescribed drugs accidentally taken by Austin in combination with drugs administered earlier at the hospital.

Meter Violator Warned

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Parking meter protester Patrick Tyrone Roberts, 25, was warned Wednesday that justice will be swift if he continues to violate the city's parking meter bylaw.

Roberts appeared before provincial court judge Eric Benrodt on charges of failure to pay 60 parking tickets he has received since last fall and requested an adjournment until May 14 so he could prepare his defence.

Crown prosecutor William Turlock told Benrodt that Roberts was still receiving tickets for violating the parking meter bylaw and the judge warned Roberts not to get any more tickets. He granted the adjournment.

Benrodt fined Roberts $10 or three days on one parking meter violation Wednesday. Roberts was convicted of the one charge on April 11.

Plant Burned

LANGLEY (CP) — The Cameo plastics manufacturing plant here burned. Two men were in the building, but escaped uninjured. No damage estimate was available.

Services Pooled

VANCOUVER (CP) — CP Air and Qantas, the Australian flag carrier, have agreed to pool their service between Australia and Canada.

The pool agreement means the airlines will share revenues from passengers, cargo and mail between Australia and Canada.

Scuffle Ends Union Meet

TRAIL (CP) — A confrontation between the Canadian Workers Union (CWU) and the United Steelworkers of America was blocked Wednesday night as a planned steelworkers meeting was cancelled amid some minor scuffling and shouting.

A CWU spokesman said they went to the meeting in an attempt to run the union democratically.

About 150 members of Local 480 of the steelworkers attended the meeting. Among these were CWU members, who still hold steelworkers membership.

The meeting was adjourned after about 20 minutes with little accomplished.

The CWU is trying to take over from the steelworkers as bargaining agent for 3,600 Cominco Ltd. workers here, and at Kimberley and Salmo. The British Columbia Labor Relations Board last month denied a CWU application for a certification vote.

After the meeting, Bob Keiver, president of the steelworkers local, told CWU president Doug Swanson, "I asked you to leave and you wouldn't."

"You have no right to ask me to leave," replied Swanson. Mr. Keiver would make no further comment and did not say if another meeting would be called.

Swanson said the meeting was adjourned because Keiver told him he "was not a member." He said that was wrong, that "to get me out of the membership the union has to lay charges."

The Gideon service, to be broadcast over a public address system, will feature The Five Teens from Glad Tidings Tabernacle and the Salvation Army Citadel Band.

In the afternoon at Beacon Hill Park, Rev. Alan Beaton of Knox Presbyterian Church will direct the service and Rev. David Metzger of Grace Lutheran Church will preach.

Massed choirs from various Victoria churches will also perform at the Key 73 service, sponsored by members from the Greater Victoria Council of Churches and the Evangelical Pastors' Fellowship.

At Metropolitan United Church a Good Friday service is planned in the sanctuary at 11 a.m., co-sponsored by the First United and First Baptist churches.

At 7:30 p.m. Easter Sunday the San Marcos High School Madrigal Singers from Santa Barbara, Calif., will give a concert to the Metropolitan congregation.

The singers, eight young men and women directed by Larry Mason will present a program in keeping with the mood of passion week, the crucifixion, resurrection and post-resurrection ministry of Christ.

An Easter service at Christ Church Cathedral is planned for 11 p.m. Saturday when the congregation will meet on the steps of the cathedral and enter holding small candles lit from the Pascal candle. The cathedral will be in total darkness.

The candles represent the coming of the light of Christ into the world.

After scriptural readings, including the story of the resurrection, the lights will go on in the cathedral to mark the celebration of the first mass of Easter.

Three Salvation Army congregations will meet at 10:30 a.m. Good Friday at the Esquimalt Corps building, 1245 Esquimalt.

Major Bruce Harcourt, director of the Harbor Light Centre, will be speaker and representative laymen and officers will participate in the service.

The Citadel Songsters, directed by William Hastings, will also participate.

Several celebrations are planned at St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

At 7:30 p.m. Easter Sunday Bishop Remi De Ro will celebrate the commemoration of Our Lord's Supper; Friday at 3 p.m., the solemn liturgy of the passion of Jesus, veneration of the cross and distribution of Holy Communion; Saturday at 9 p.m., the Easter Vigil Celebrations when the "new fire", the Easter candle and baptismal water will be blessed.

Mass will be celebrated at regular times Easter Sunday.

POLE FIRE CUTS POWER IN SAANICH

A hydro pole fire blacked out the Willows section of Saanich Bay and a small area of Saanich near Haultain during the dinner hour Wednesday.

The pole caught fire near Epworth and Cadboro Bay Road causing a power failure from 5:30 to 7 p.m.

B.C. Hydro Information Officer Dorothy Tupper said today that arcing, a jump in current, was responsible for the blackout. Power was restored at 7 p.m. after hydro repairmen replaced the pole's damaged cross arm.

Save Theatre — Gati

The Royal Theatre should be saved, László Gati, conductor of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, said Wednesday.

"I'm not speaking as a conductor but as a Victorian." The theatre is part of the city and it would be a shame to see it torn down."

The theatre at Broughton and Blanshard has been offered for sale by Famous Players and Mayor Peter Polson wants the regional district to buy it.

Gati disagrees with the argument that saving the theatre would spoil the chances of getting a convention centre for Victoria.

"Some planners say the population of the capital region will be 500,000 by 1980," he said. "If this is so, you will need a convention centre, plus a theatre of the size of the Royal to accommodate certain types of performances."

"Certain renovations could be carried out. The pit could be enlarged to permit a larger orchestra for operatic performances."

Jack Rippengale, superintendent of historic Fort Rodd Hill, said the theatre is part of the charm of Victoria.

"Tear it down and you won't get another like it," he said. "You will lose something that can never be replaced. The building has the decor and atmosphere of a live theatre."

Mechanic Burned in Blast

A 22-year-old mine mechanic was taken to Victoria General Hospital suffering from burns after a compressor room explosion at the Sunro mine at Jordahl River.

Karl Kasika, of 1971 Caldwell, Sooke, is in fair condition with burns to his face and arms.

A mine spokesman said today the cause of the explosion, in the electrical panel controlling the mine's cooling compressor, remains a mystery.

Kasika had gone into the compressor room following a mechanical breakdown.

Royal Trust

Royal Trust reports net operating profit of $3.1 million or 31 cents a share for the first quarter.

This compares with $2.5 million or 26 cents for the corresponding period last year.

The company adds that current results include profits of a Florida bank which was acquired in late 1972.

Royal Trust assets at March 31 were $2.2 billion, up from $1.9 billion a year ago.

Pine Point

Pine Point Mines Ltd. reports net earnings for the first quarter of 1973 of $3.5 million or 78 cents a share, compared with $1.5 million or 34 cents a share for the first three months of 1972.

Company president J. H. Salter said higher prices for lead and zinc on metal markets was the main reason for the increase in earnings. Pine Point is controlled by Cominco Ltd.

The company's financial report showed net earnings for the year ended Dec. 31, 1972 of $7.3 million, or $1.62 a share, compared with $11.9 million or $2.65 a share in 1971.

Increased taxes were given as the primary reason for the drop in earnings.

Inco

President L. Edward Grubb of International Nickel Co. of Canada estimated today that first-quarter profit will be about $36 million or 48 cents a share.

That would compare with $18,689,000 or 25 cents a share for the first quarter of 1972.

The increase was attributed to higher deliveries at better prices of nickel, copper and platinum-group metals.

Calgary Power

Calgary Power Ltd. reports net earnings of $14.1 million during 1972, up $1.3 million from 1971.

Earnings were equal to 16 cents a share in the latest period, against one cent in 1971.

A substantial part of the gain reflects the inclusion in this year's figures of results of Burrard Dry Dock Co., acquired by Cornat on April 1, 1972.

Calgary Power Ltd. reports net earnings of $14.1 million during 1972, up $1.3 million from 1971.

Gross revenue from operations increased by 11 per cent to $70 million during 1972, while earnings per common share climbed to $2.38 from $1.20.

Calgary Power has total assets of $438 million and serves directly or indirectly 60,000 customers in Alberta.

A. W. Howard, company president, said higher rates being sought by the company president, said higher rates being sought by the company would increase revenues by 15 per cent and offset inflation and growing environmental control costs.

"With a continuing high rate of growth and an inflationary cost, we anticipated capital expenditures in the period ahead, will reach even higher levels than 1972," he said. "The company will spend almost as much on capital plant in the next five years as it has in the more than 60 years since its inception."

Candel

Candel Oil Ltd. reports record quarterly net earnings for the first quarter of 1973.

Net income was $992,000, or 24 cents a share, an increase of 23 per cent from the same quarter in 1972 when net income was $806,000, or 19 cents a share.

Better prices for crude oil and natural gas and lower interest charges resulted in the increase, said Smiley Raborn, president and chief executive officer of the company.

have more than a marginal operation."

The operation is the manufacture and distribution of a cartop sailing catamaran, the 12-foot Aqua Cat.

"I had no choice," explained Shuley. "I moved to Ontario because I wanted to top it off, he was paying 17½ per cent import duty and 12 per cent federal sales tax.

"All this was combining to push the retail price of the product too high to compete successfully," he says.

Shuley decided to manufacture the Aqua Cat in Canada and obtained a licence from the U.S. makers, the American Fiberglass Co.

He decided to subcontract the work out but soon discovered that was not a good arrangement and went into production himself. The retail price dropped to less than $1,180.

It took over the B.C. dealership himself and settled down to work, confident he had a business that would move.

It did—but so did the costs.

After two years it began to hurt. In two years rail costs from Connecticut to Vancouver doubled. Labor costs in the United States rose. And the end of two years, however, Shuley did a market study.

"We found three things," he said. "Labor costs were dramatically lower in our field in Ontario—$3.50 an hour compared with $4.75 an hour on the lower mainland.

"Material costs would continue to be around 8 to 10 per cent higher in B.C. than in Ontario where the supplies are. Finally, it was costing about $35 a unit to ship 77 per cent of our product to market in Ontario and Quebec and rates were going to increase in 1973."

MOVES BUSINESS

So he moved his business to Brantford, Ont., and commuted to his home in Vancouver until he could sell that house and move his family to Ontario.

"There is also an added bonus, something we hadn't paid much attention to," he says.

"Because of the freight rate differential, it's costing us about 10 per cent less to ship from Ontario to B.C. than it cost us to ship from B.C. to Ontario."

The hearing on a land-use contract application for the complex, submitted by local builder H. Yankie, will continue May 2 at 1:15 p.m.

The complex would have 27 three-bedroom townhouses on a two-acre site.

RAIL MEN TOLD TO DEFY AUTHORITY, STRANGLE B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Syd Thompson, chairman of the Vancouver Labor Council told more than 600 railway employees, members of the United Transportation Union, the only way they can obtain justice is to defy authority and take the matter into their own hands.

"You have the power to strangle the establishment in this country," said Thompson. "You are in a position to strangle this port, this province and all of Western Canada."

"Work collectively and shut the railway down until you get some results."

"There are times you will have to defy the authorities," he said.

Earlier, Ray Haynes, secretary-treasurer of the British Columbia Federation of Labor, blamed leaders and members for their present troubles.

He said railway unions were notorious for going it alone and having nothing to do with labor federations and councils.

"Nothing's going to change until you guys in the UTU and other international unions put the heat on your leadership to have full time representatives right here in B.C.," said Haynes.

CNR yardmen here have been working to rule since late February to protest reductions in the size of yard crews. An issue in the dispute is a still-pending CN court action following a mass book-off in 1971 during a contract dispute.

Many railway men here have also withheld union dues in a bid to force their union to negotiate a better pension scheme.

UIC Report Called Whitewash by Tory

OTTAWA (CP) — After investigating charges that the Unemployment Insurance Commission (UIC) is unfairly depriving claimants of unemployment benefits, the UIC advisory committee has recommended that the commission "should pursue a more aggressive program of public relations."

"There is evidence that the media have failed to portray the operations of the Unemployment Insurance Commission objectively," the report says.

The report, tabled in the Commons Wednesday by Manpower Minister Robert Andras, was prepared by the eight members of the UIC advisory committee.

Conservative spokesman Lincoln Alexander (PC-Hamilton West) immediately branded the report "whitewash."

He complained that the committee's investigations consisted solely of interviews with top UIC personnel. He said the report clearly shows there were no investigations at the level of claimants or the referees who judge claimants' appeals.

Andras pointed out that the last paragraph of the report says more investigation is planned, to study the UIC operations "from the stand-point of the claimant."

Some claimants have said

Airport Work Set

OTTAWA (CP) — The transport department will spend $720,000 to improve the Regina airport terminal and aircraft parking apron.

Work on the terminal building is to improve baggage-handling equipment and to expand ticket and waiting areas. The department said the work is scheduled to be complete early next year.

in recent weeks that benefit-control officers misled them or distorted the facts of their cases and then unfairly cut them off from benefits.

The report says that "undoubtedly, the most effective and desirable method of removing a claimant from the rolls of those receiving unemployment insurance and the most important guide of benefit control is to help that individual find a suitable position in the work force and this principle must continue to dominate the work of the commission."

The committee recommended continued efforts to improve cooperation to this end between the UIC and the manpower department.

The report did not mention allegations that a high proportion of persons disqualified are later reinstated after appealing the disqualification.

Referring to reports of high percentages of disqualification, the report said:

"Recent headlines indicating that as many as 65 per cent of those investigating were disqualified is not a reflection on the honesty of claimants in general or a reflection of poor administration, but rather the ability of control officers to now identify, because of computerized

$55,000 Received

The Vancouver Island Branch of the Canadian Cancer Society has received more than $55,000 in its Conquer Cancer Campaign, due to April 30.

This year's target for the Greater Victoria area is $65,000.

Executive officer Wilt Burton said about one-third of the 65,000 appeal letters sent out have been answered.

Almost 70 per cent of the funds raised by the society are used for its research program, the balance being spent on patient aid and education work.

Donors should send their contributions to the Victoria office at 857 Caledonia as soon as possible.

First Salaried Doctor on Staff

The provincial government is negotiating with several doctors to work in remote areas of B.C. on a salary basis, a senior government officer confirmed today.

Dr. George Elliott, deputy minister, health branch, also confirmed that the first doctor the provincial government has hired to cover a remote region is also undertaking some public health duties.

He is Dr. Dirk Van der Minne, now working in the west Chilcotin under a contract with the province which pays him a salary of $32,000 a year.

The territory covered by Dr. Van der Minne is large and the sparse population, most of it Indian, could not support a doctor on the usual fee-for-service basis under which the rest of physicians practising in B.C. are paid by medicare.

The problem of getting adequate medical coverage for isolated areas, where most doctors don't want to practise, has troubled both the profession and the government in recent years and is one of the issues which produced acrimonious debate between doctors and former Health Minister Ralph Loffmark.

And the concept of doctors on salaries, or at least some doctors on salaries, is one dear to the hearts of many in the New Democratic Party and an idea which has been vigorously rejected by many in the medical profession.

While Dr. Van der Minne is the first to be hired by the government to practise on a full-time contract, the province has been providing a partial subsidy for a doctor at Pender Harbor, said Dr. Elliott.

In that case, the doctor charges on a fee-for-service basis but the government controls his income. Pender Harbor is on the mainland coast south of Jervis Inlet and opposite Texada Island.

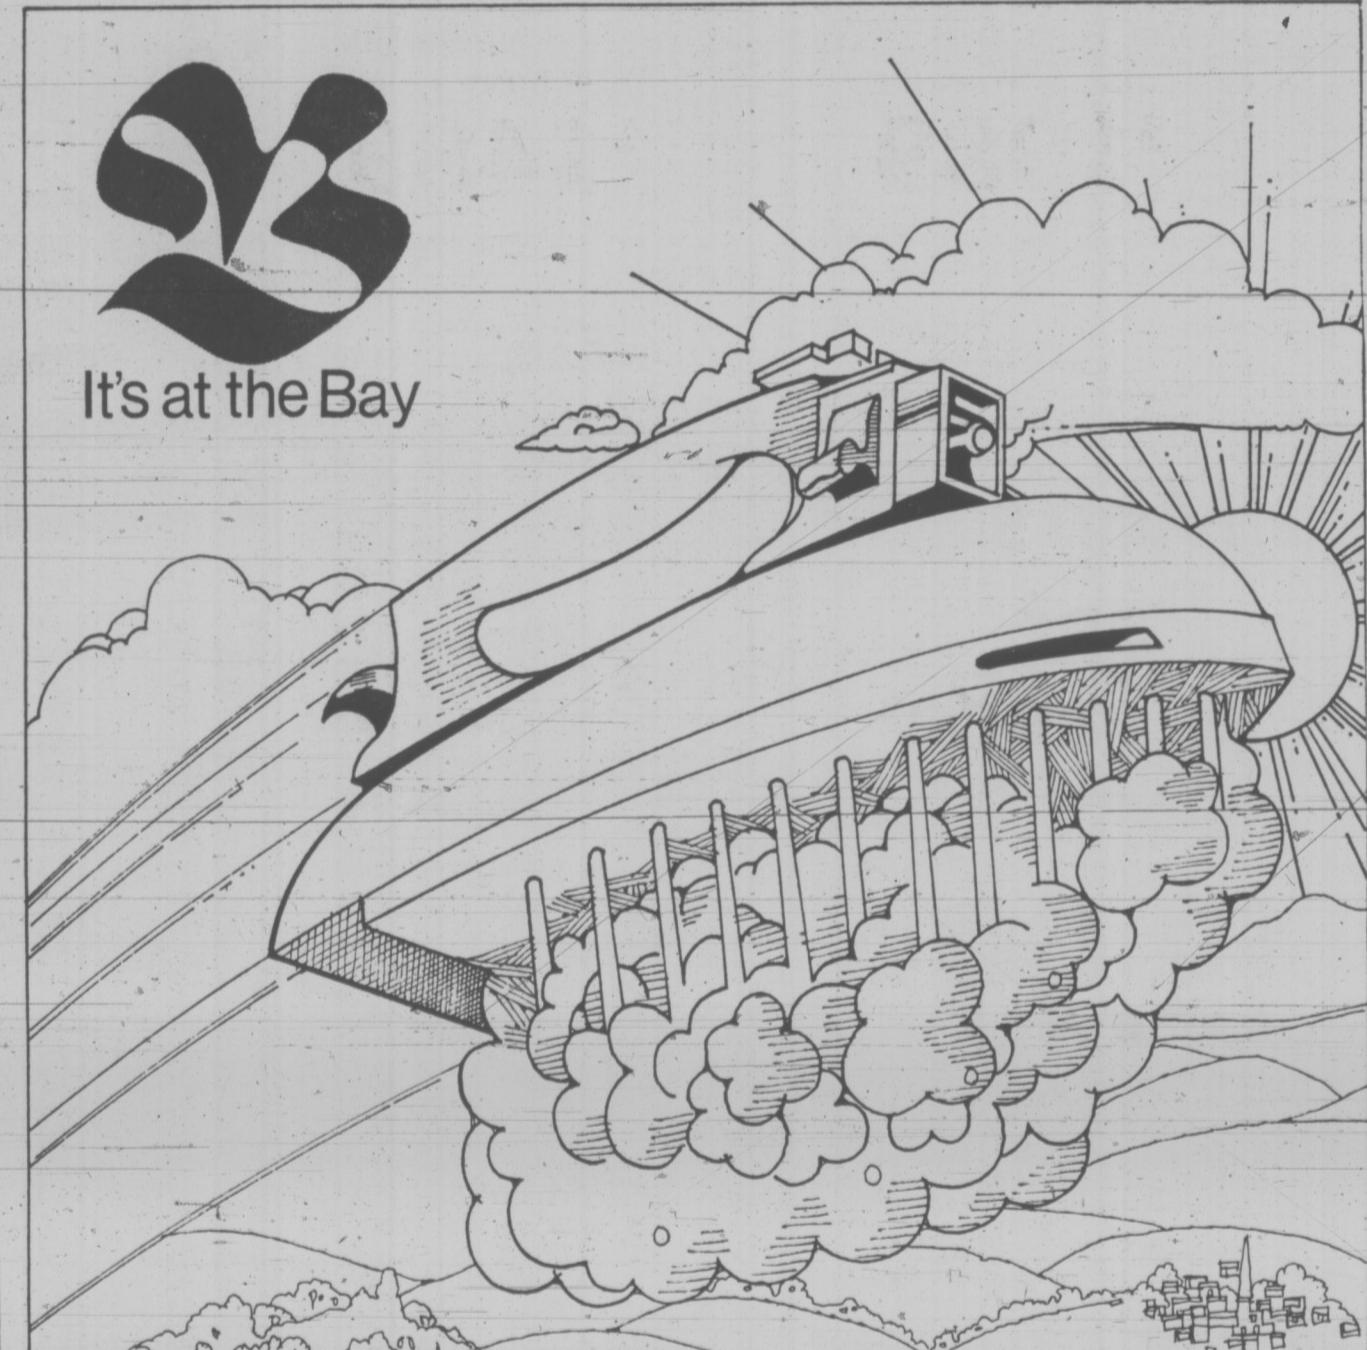

In Dr. Van der Minne's case, he is acting as "the eyes and ears" of the nearest medical health officer as he covers his territory, said Dr. Elliott.

He receives certain allowances for office expenses and travelling. Part of the cost of his services is recovered from the federal government.

WHEN THE METEORITES COME TO CAPISTRANO

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (Reuter) — Scientists at the University of California at San Diego have announced the recovery of the first newly-fallen meteorite in California history.

The meteorite, about the size and shape of a slightly flattened hen's egg, fell through the roof of a carport at 2 a.m. March 15 in San Juan Capistrano, about 55 miles north of here.

Scientists said a search would be made of the immediate area to try to find other pieces of the meteorite.

The discovery was announced by Dr. Robert C. Finken, a research chemist, who said tests confirmed the celestial origin of the rock.

The meteorite was discovered by Jack Scirlock, an 84-year-old retired barber who occupied the trailer space at San Juan Capistrano, two miles from the Pacific Ocean.

Satellite Growth Towns Opposed

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Times Staff

A proposal to establish two satellite towns to absorb Greater Victoria future growth is opposed by the Environmental Centre of Greater Victoria.

Satellite towns would have detrimental effects on the downtown area and merely become "dormitory appendages," says a special study by the centre.

If new towns are established, they should be self-contained units with their own employment opportunities.

The satellite proposal was one of five plans suggested in a land-use study prepared by the Capital Regional Board last September.

The board's study was made to provide a choice of development alternatives for southern Vancouver Island during the next 20 years.

The environmental group headed by Jack Priestman, a consulting civil engineer, includes geographers, economists, businessmen, lawyers, park experts, biologists, housewives, art critics and two professional engineers from industry.

The report's major recommendations are:

Growth should be directed as much as possible to the four core municipalities.

The existing downtown area should be developed as an attractive centre that can be enjoyed by residents and tourists.

Adequate areas of land for parks and greenbelts near urban areas should be set aside.

Growth west of Esquimalt harbor should be restricted, and any development in the Colwood-Langford area should be based on larger lot sizes in areas suitable for septic tank drainage.

One of the report's major suggestions is for an extensive greenbelt in the Highlands.

The study also advocates acquiring shoreline property.

"One of the most important environmental assets of the Capital Region is its seascapes setting," the report says. "Unfortunately less than five per cent of the saltwater shoreline is within public ownership."

Municipalities are criticized for failing to provide adequate neighboring parks and playlots for citizens.

The report warns that the Highlands is now on the threshold of development.

"Land owners and developers are subdividing to the allowable 10-acre minimum requirement and have begun to make inroads into some of the large undeveloped areas."

SEX GADGET MAN STUDIES APPEAL

Kelly Covin is a disappointed man—he has a franchise on a sex gadget supermarket which Victoria doesn't want.

First the police told him he couldn't sell contraceptives—it's against federal law—now Victoria city council is being recommended to turn down a business licence he has applied for.

Covin now says he's going to find out what he can do to appeal today's decision by council's finance committee.

After the committee had reluctantly agreed not to turn him down outright, but to give him a hearing first, Covin commented: "It's a little cavalier."

Covin said that he felt people wanted his store because "sex today is probably the cause of more hangups than anything else."

City Rejects Skidroad Aid

City council's finance committee agreed today to recommend refusal of $600 to pay off rent arrears for a federally funded drop-in centre which helps up to 50 skidrow men per day.

Minutes later the committee approved expenditure of $1,000 for polished hardboard walls at a new fire station.

The drop-in centre went against the recommendation of the review committee especially set up by the Community Council of Greater Victoria to look into the matter.

"We just can't pick up these deficits," Mayor Peter Pollen said.

A report by the review committee said the Wharf Street centre provides coffee, snacks, shaving and cleanup facilities and simple games, "in order to keep alcoholics physically tidy and off the streets and squares of Victoria."

"In this way the centre provides a service to the public and to the police who occasionally drive an alcoholic to the door for care," the report said.

NOT REALLY laying down on job, Charn Dhillon just took time getting up after being checked during Victoria Shamrocks' workout at Memorial Arena Wednesday. That's goalie Skip Chapman.

Irish Play Up Defence And Some 200-Pounders

"The emphasis is on defence this year," general manager Norm Kowalyk explained as the Shamrocks were going through a drill at Memorial Arena.

"Last year we took too many stupid stick penalties, they hurt, and that's what we plan to improve on this season."

Out on the floor the Shamrocks were being put through their paces by brother Ed Kowalyk, coach of the club, and the drill was simple enough, but awfully demanding.

A ball would be tossed into the corner, three players would charge after it, and the one lucky (or unlucky) enough be-impressive, and it isn't certain either that all of last year's regulars will make the club, Norm Kowalyk was saying.

One new player people might like most is Roger Dubnya. "He's a tough kid," said Norm, of the forward who has moved to Nanaimo where he and his father are in business. He played for Coquitlam last year.

Yet to show, but with excellent credentials is Jim Guerin who comes west highly recommended by Bobby Allan of Peterborough. A speedster with a good shot, Guerin is due in town this weekend, and could be the running mate that Ranjit Dillon could use so well.

They were calling Ranjit "the old man" at the workout, but he wasn't buying that. At 29, he gives a couple of years away to goalie Skip Chapman who, if he isn't in his best seasonal shape, only goes "about 191 pounds."

"It's tough," Skip said of the grind as he alternated with George Grover in goal.

"That's that other big kid I was telling you about," said Norm as Bob Turkington cruised by. From MacDonalds, a 200-pounder, "he could be a big help."

The New, and the Thompsons

Kowalyk went down the list—Pete Rushton from senior "C", Tom Churchill, a Shamrock two years ago; Harry Riebenbach, Ron Kulcheski, a drafted junior who will commute from the mainland, and perhaps a non-advertised special.

"You know, Chris Hall could be a real dark horse," Norm said. "He hasn't played much lacrosse lately, but he handles himself well, plays his floor position perfectly, and is just about as fast as anyone out there."

If inexpérience is Hall's apparent shortcoming, the Irish are looking at him for his stumping ability first, and hopefully the polish will come later. With that, Hall closed in on a sprint down the floor.

"Then there is Dave Morgan," Norm added. "He has a lot of natural ability; Tom Somner is returning, Dennis Somner will be with us all year..."

The Thompsons — Iyan and Brian?

A slow smile crossed Norm's face.

"They've got to be the two players in the best condition of anybody. They've been working out all winter, he said of Ivan, last year's most valuable player and Brian, the club's leading goal scorer."

"Besides," Norm added, "this year we should have 10 or 11,200 pounds. We can use juniors more because their schedule doesn't conflict with ours..."

Even if the opening game isn't until May 9, it appeared the season already was in full swing.

to come up with it, would race down the floor to be harassed and checked by the other two players.

That's where the hitting took place. "Both of you take him at once," Kowalyk yelled. "It's no use having two defensive players there, and only one man checking. Get him... cross check... cross check..."

Then, of course, there was the usual reverence being attached to fundamentals. The pass, the block, the cut, and the cut off the block. Over and over again, one man wide, one man inside. It would have to work that way in a game. So it until it is second nature. That was the drill.

This was only a small part of the two-hour session, one of four such drills this week, and a follow up to a pre-season program that began in a school gymnasium six weeks ago.

Canadiens Have a Worry

TIMES NEWS SERVICE
A pair of veteran defencemen could play a large part in tonight's third game of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final round between Montreal Canadiens and Philadelphia Flyers.

One, lanky Jacques Laperrière of the Canadiens, may miss all or part of the contest, while the other—Wayne Hillman of the Flyers—should be able to take a regular turn and help bolster the Philadelphia blueline corps.

The series is tied 1-1 after games in Montreal Saturday and Tuesday nights. Both were decided in the first period of overtime.

The Flyers won the opener 5-4 on a goal by centre Rick MacLeish, while the Canadiens took the second game 4-3 on a goal by rookie defenceman Larry Robinson. Ironically, Robinson had been used to replace the ailing Laperrière.

Laperrière was forced to retire after the second period of Tuesday's game because of the pain from a recurring groin injury. Hillman, 34, and now with his fourth National Hockey League club, was used sparingly in last Saturday night's opener and watched Tuesday's game from the bench.

Montreal coach Scotty Bowman said it would not be known until late today whether the 31-year-old Laperrière, now in his 10th full season with the Canadiens, will play in tonight's game, scheduled for 5 p.m. PST.

On the other hand Philadelphia coach Fred Shero Wednesday welcomed the news that Hillman, who appeared in 74 regular season games for the Flyers, again was fit for fulltime duty. Hillman had been sidelined by recurrent muscle spasms in his legs.

Ranger coach Emile Francis knows it is a must for his club to salvage at least one of their two games at home to stay in contention in the best-of-seven series.

Hawks moved ahead 2-1 in the round Tuesday night with a 2-1 victory at Madison Square Garden.

The fifth game, originally scheduled for Sunday, has been moved back to next Tuesday in Chicago to allow Hillman to return to the team.

Francis indicated last week that Seiling could be back much sooner than expected—possibly for the finals.

Both coaches look on the breather with a mixture of reluctance and anticipation.

Billy Reay of Chicago and Francis both would prefer continuing, but admit the time will allow some key injuries to heal.

Chicago defenceman Keith Magnuson broke his jaw in two places Sunday at Chicago when he stopped a shot by Brad Park during a New York power play.

Reay said earlier this week he hoped the rugged young defenceman would be ready by Sunday, but the additional time will allow the fracture to further heal.

Rod Seiling, the veteran Ranger defenceman who suffered a fractured collar bone late in the year and was believed to be back for the season, may also be back.

Francis indicated last week that Seiling could be back much sooner than expected—possibly for the finals.

that offensive line coach Bill Michael had resigned.

The forfeiture and resignation came after Big Eight Conference officials verified that the records of Jackson and Mike Phillips, both from Ball High School in Galveston, Tex., had been tampered with, said Wade Walker, the university's athletic director.

In addition, Oklahoma officials revealed that Jackson, the No. 1 quarterback of the Sooners, had admitted having knowledge of the tampering of Jackson's record. He said Jackson, the No. 2 quarterback for the Big Eight champions last season as a freshman, also had stayed in an athletic dormitory for two nights in violation of conference regulations while in high school.

Sooners coach Barry Switzer said there was no indication that the National Collegiate Athletic Association might enter the investigation.

Dr. Paul Sharp, university president, said in a prepared statement that "to the best of our knowledge, neither Jerry Jackson, nor Mike Phillips was aware that their trans-

NEW YORK (CP) — It was a distasteful job for Clarence S. Campbell to do—in effect delivering a public rebuke to a small group of National Hockey League club owners who talked out of turn.

The NHL president wasn't in the best of health Wednesday when he told a news conference the league had to officially dissociate itself from the actions of the dissident owners or condone them.

Under the intense pressures from its players' association and a $50 million or more antitrust suit, the NHL's board of governors repudiated the recent secret talks between four NHL and three World Hockey Association owner-trustees.

The merger talks probably were one of the worst-kept secrets of the year and were quickly brushed aside by the WHA at a two-day meeting in New York last week.

Wednesday, the NHL, in a formal statement by board chairman Bruce Norris, president of Detroit Red Wings, said it never had associated itself with merger talks or any agreement settling the differences between the two leagues.

Bill Jennings, president of New York Rangers who apparently initiated the secret talks, was rapped hard on the knuckles for his action. He was not available for comment.

Norris proposed a pair of resolutions, approved by NHL lawyers, which said in brief:

"The NHL 'never associated itself with, and in fact does not accept the recent discussions' between the leagues "and such discussions were completely unofficial and not authorized. . . ."

Such discussions "shall not be renewed by any NHL member club" directly or indirectly.

The resolutions were adopted unanimously by the board.

"In any democratic organization," Campbell said, "individuals can act as they wish but unless we repudiate the actions of the dissident owners or condone them."

When Alan Eagleson, executive director of the players' association, learned of the secret talks, held on March 25 and April 1, he threatened an immediate injunction against the merger.

Campbell conceded that the demand for ultimatum—"whatever you want to call it"—by the players' association primarily led to the board's repudiation of any merger.

Eagleson's contention was that such a merger would hurt the bargaining rights of players by removing the prime element of competition.

"Any merger would bring a substantial reduction in salaries and, for that reason alone, we oppose it," he said earlier this month.

Campbell agreed that the demand for ultimatum—"whatever you want to call it"—by the players' association primarily led to the board's repudiation of any merger.

The NHL and WHA are girding for battle in the courts, and Campbell said it will be a long, hard fight.

NHL lawyers imposed an "injunction" on Campbell not to discuss the case further.

Gary Davidson, president of the WHA, has disclosed that the new league will go ahead with its anti-trust lawsuits seeking from the NHL damages "in excess of $50 million on all accounts."

The WHA alleges that the NHL is engaged in a conspiracy to monopolize major league hockey and prevent competition.

DON BILLSBOROUGH SUCCEEDS JOHN WREN

Uplands Golf Club didn't go far to find a new professional. Assistant Don Billsborough will take over when head professional John Wren retires on Sept. 30.

Club president Bob Bell announced today that the 25-year-old assistant will be hired as head pro and officially assume duties Oct. 1.

The Victoria-reared Billsborough will be only the third professional to work at Uplands. The late Walter Gravlin was the club's first pro, holding the post from the Uplands' opening in 1922 until 1963. Wren, Gravlin's long-time aid, has held the job for the past 10 years.

Some Canadian Touches Show in Russian Rinks

MOSCOW (AP) — When the Soviet Union swept undefeated to the world hockey championship, there were echoes of last year's Soviet-Canadian series on the ice and off.

In one game, defender Alexander Gusev fired a slapshot from the blueline at the Czechoslovakian goal and Boris Mikhailov, stationed in the slot in front of the goal like a Russian Phil Esposito, tipped the puck with his stick and it flew into the net.

Russian forwards, more than ever before, dumped the puck into the corners of the rink and then chased after it in Canadian style rather than setting up an intricate series of passes, culminating in a shot on the goal.

Some Russian fans even started waving Soviet banners in the stands to lead cheers. That was in contrast to the September Canadian series when the outnumbered visitors managed to outshout the Russians.

And schoolchildren artists, in a series of hockey paintings that hung in the Sports Palace, turned in a dozen pictures dealing with the Soviet-Canadian series.

Rival coaches such as Len Lunde of Finland and Kjell Sevensson of Sweden said there was no doubt the Soviet team had been helped by the Canadian series.

Victorous coach Vsevolod Bobrov indicated his players had benefited from eight games with the Canadians, who had four wins and a tie in the series.

Coach Vladimir Kostka of Czechoslovakia said the "strong combat with the Canadians" helped the Soviet coaches make a "complete overhaul of the team."

He didn't mean that the Soviets now were copying the Canadians, but that the Canadian games had made the Soviet players even better.

What could be seen in the Soviet play was that there was more shooting by defencemen from the point near the blueline.

Defenders were attacking more and there was more variety to the Soviet play. Most experts did not detect any major change in Soviet hockey, but there were some added touches learned in the Canadian series.

It should be noted that the Soviets crushed outmanned teams like West Germany and Poland and had little trouble with the Finns or Swedes in running up a 10-0 record in the tournament that ended Sunday.

Even against the Czechs, who dropped to third place, the Soviet seemed always to have the game well in hand and able to keep up the unrelenting pressure that caused opponents to crumple in the end.

Some who have watched a lot of Soviet hockey, thought perhaps the Soviets did use a bit more muscle in the corners of the rink—an area where they had been outplayed by the Canadians.

During the tournament, the Whalers—a team fighting for a third place finish—was assessed 129 penalty minutes. But the Russians, in more than half their games easy victories, were a close second with 117 minutes in the penalty box.

The Soviet fans, as partisan as hockey fans anywhere, roared with delight during the tournament when any Soviet player rammed an opponent into the boards or sent him head over heels with a check at mid-ice.

If there is a weakness to Soviet teams it is at defense. Canadian defenders impressed the Soviets with the way they protected their goalkeepers and with stick work and checking.

Much of the talk by reporters at the games was on the theme of the next Soviet-Canadian meeting. Both sides want it, but details haven't yet been worked out.

Indian Soccer Squads Clash in Cup Turney

The 11th annual all-native Totem Cup soccer tournament, which starts at 8 a.m. Friday at Hampton Park in Saanich, highlights the holiday weekend's sports program.

Among the 28 Indian teams from various parts of the province is defending champion Chetahs, which plays Nitin Hawks at noon.

Games continue at 8 a.m. Saturday and at 9 Saturday night a dance to help finance the three-day turney will be held at George Pearkes Arena.

Consolation semi-finals will start at 9 a.m. Sunday, at 10 there will be a girls' game and at 11 an "old timers'" game.

Consolation finals are set for 1 p.m. and the cup final will be at 3.

Also starting Friday morning is a 10-team, three-day women's field hockey tournament, which gets underway at 10:30 at the University of Victoria. It will include teams from the Vancouver Island Ladies' Field Hockey Association and from the Mainland.

Saturday, the Victoria Rugby Union's first and second division playoffs will begin.

The union, without some of its usual grounds, settled on University of Victoria field for the first division semi-final between Oak Bay Wanderers and Castaways. James Bay Athletic Association and Cowichan meet in the other semi-final at Macdonald Park. Both games are at 2:30 p.m.

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers of the National Football League have acquired safety Alvin Haymond from Washington Redskins in return for an undisclosed future draft choice. The 10-year veteran, a six-foot, 190-pounder, was acquired by the Redskins from Los Angeles Rams during the off season last year.

Whalers Get Jump

By The Canadian Press

The power play is important to a hockey team, but New England Whalers have shown they can do without it.

The Whalers were scoreless in more than 15 minutes of power play time Wednesday night and still defeated Cleveland Crusaders 3-2 in their World Hockey Association playoff match.

It was the opening game in the best-of-seven semi-final series, with the second scheduled for tonight in Boston. The other semi-final, matching Houston Aeros and Winnipeg Jets, gets under way Friday in Winnipeg.

"Our power play was very disappointing," said coach Jack Kelley of the Whalers, "but we did get some real good shots off."

Cleveland goalie Gerry Cheevers had a lot to do with stopping New England's power play attempts.

The Whalers had a 32-26 advantage in shots on goal in the game and 19-5 in the final period.

The lack of scoring punch on the power play has been a problem for New England all season. League statistics show the Whalers had 272 power play opportunities during the season but scored only 47 goals, or once every 5.7 chances.

Only Alberta Oilers, with one goal in every 5.9 chances, had a lower proficiency on power plays during the season.

New England's victory Wednesday came on Tim Sheehy's goal with only 25 seconds remaining.

Sheehy had opened the scoring in the first period when he poked in a shot by John French but Cleveland's Ron Buchanan tied it up at 1-1 in the third period when he converted a pass from Rich Pumple.

Pumple then put Cleveland ahead when he scored on a shot that deflected into the net off a Whaler defenceman's skate.

Larry Pleau's goal at 15:40 tied the score at 2-2, setting the stage for Sheehy's winner.

In Boats, Quaff Quietly

AROUND OUR SHORES

By Pat Dufour

With the first long cruising weekend of the season coming up, for most boaters it's time to remind the fraternity of their responsibilities under the B.C. Liquor Act.

The Council of B.C. Yacht Clubs and the RCMP's marine section confirm that it's illegal to "down a few" in the cockpit or on the deck of a boat.

Boozing and boating may not be synonymous but they're darned close to it although the RCMP aren't going to be killjoys about the situation.

One RCMP spokesman says, "A guy sipping a drink or a bottle of beer doesn't generally offend anyone any more. We've softened the policy so that we are only interested in the rowdy. Anybody who's using a little discretion will find the police do the same."

He added, however, "If a guy comes on heavy, whooping and hollering, then, we'd be down on him like a herd of turtles."

Obviously consideration is the key word. The police intend to use it—how about you?

Having been one of the boaters that have deleted Genoa Bay Marina from the cruising circuit in recent years because of deteriorating facilities, it's good to know that it's once again in good shape.

Len and Helge Lambrecht took over the marina in 1971 and have done a good job of bringing it back.

Living there all year round, the Lambrechts have had new floats put in, enlarged the parking area for those who want to reach there by road and are putting in a new boat ramp.

"Galley slaves", who prefer to down tools when the boat's tied up alongside will find a pal in retired navy chief Harry Nippard. Harry has leased the cafe which has been completely done over and tinted with red carpeting. The treatment is red carpet too!

Members of the Victoria Yacht Club, depending on the weather, are planning a four-day trip to Quadra Island on the weekend. The man in charge of this sortie is Peter Van Dyke. Peter intends to get an early start Good Friday so tonight's the last chance to give him a ring and get in on things. His phone number is 593-2048.

Good Friday also brings the start of the fifth annual Strait of Georgia race in West Vancouver.

Peter Robson of the West Vancouver Yacht Club reports that this will be the biggest one ever with 108 boats on the start line.

As usual, a large number of the competing boats will be American, about 40 per cent.

Local sailors will be pulling for the healthy contingent of boats from the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, well over a dozen, that have signed up for this big one.

DRAFT DATE MOVED AHEAD

NEW YORK (CP) — The amateur player draft, keynote of National Hockey League annual meetings in recent years to the point of almost excluding other important business, has been advanced almost a month.

NHL President Clarence Campbell, attending a board of governors meeting

Wednesday, said it had been decided to hold the amateur draft at Montreal, May 17.

The annual meeting is scheduled for Montreal on June 10.

Campbell said the draft was moved ahead "because you have no idea the terrible disruption it creates at the annual meetings."

Junior Club Suspended

WINNIPEG (CP) — George Allard, secretary manager of the Manitoba Amateur Hockey Association, announced Wednesday the Portage la Prairie Terriers have been declared winner by default of their Centennial Cup quarter-final series with Humboldt Broncos.

Portage will advance to the semi-final series expected to begin April 22 against the winner of the Penticton-Calgary series now underway.

Allard made the announcement after receiving word from Frank Kryczka, Saskatchewan representative to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, that Humboldt coach Terry Henning withdrew his team from further play.

In Calgary, CAHA president Joe Kryczka said the Broncos, Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League champions, were given an opportunity to resume play Wednesday but they refused and the series was forfeited.

Henning was suspended indefinitely along with the manager and owners and the league has withheld the Humboldt share of any playoff receipts.

Kryczka said he has started an investigation which will undoubtedly result in further disciplinary action" and possibly the loss of Humboldt's franchise in the Saskatchewan league.

Henning cited excessive roughness and deliberate attempts by Terrier players to injure as reasons for withdrawing his team.

CAHA representatives in Saskatchewan and Manitoba indicated that although the series was rough it was not any rougher than any other junior series, Kryczka said.

They were also at a loss to explain why Humboldt had waited for five games to complain about the roughness.

Saanich Hockey

Saanich Minor Hockey Association will hold its annual general meeting at 8 p.m. Sunday, May 6, in the Senior Citizens Centre, Hampton Road. All interested persons are invited to attend the session.

90-YEAR-OLD CLERK GIVEN NEW JOB

DeBECK

Ninety-year-old E. K. (Ned) DeBeck, long-time clerk of the B.C. legislature, Wednesday was given a less demanding job as clerk consultant.

His job as clerk will be filled by Ian Horne, who is deputy clerk and law clerk. Horne's job is to be filled by George MacMinn, who is assistant clerk.

The changes were made through a motion passed unanimously by the house. Provincial Secretary Ernie Hall, who made the motion, said another clerk will be appointed to handle some of the committee work done by the legislature.

Claude Wagner, the PCs chief Quebec spokesman at Ottawa, said at the news conference that he had had several talks with Clement Vincent, a former Tory Commons member currently representing Nicolet riding in the Quebec national assembly for the Union Nationale party.

When General Motors put rumble seats on some of their cars back in the '20's they were the cat's meow.

Some of the equipment illustrated is optional at extra cost.

Buckling seat and shoulder belts is an idea you can live with.

In 1973, Chevrolet gave Nova a hatchback model... it's the cat's meow, now.

Nova, Chevrolet's fantastic "Freedom Machine" offers you a Hatchback model in '73 that opens up your world as it opens up the whole back of the car.

A fold down rear seat gives you plenty of room for two and 2 weeks worth of camping gear. And when you get there you can even sleep in the back.

In town, it's sized to move easily in traffic and park in the tightest spots.

And Nova carries an easy-to-take price tag plus an outstanding reputation for dependability.

Chevrolet Nova. It's more than just a way to get there.

Launch Set For Anik II

OTTAWA (CP) — If all goes well, sometime this evening Canada will have a second communications satellite in orbit and Telesat Canada will be able to look forward confidently to increased revenues.

The satellite, Anik II, is scheduled to be launched between 6:25 and 7:46 p.m. (EST) from Cape Kennedy. There will be a tense 26-minute wait until the satellite achieves orbit and its guidance is taken over by Telesat Canada facilities here.

Anik II, a compact 600-pound package of sophisticated electronics, is identical to Anik I, which was successfully launched Nov. 9 and which is carrying television programs to the North and relaying other communications across the country.

I Didn't Know Any of Them Says Man Who Killed 3

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — "I didn't know any of them," Larry De Lon Casey said after he was charged with killing three persons and wounding two others during a shooting spree in a southwest Houston residential area. Two of the dead were children.

"I didn't really believe I had killed anybody; I didn't realize what I was doing at the time," the 21-year-old man told reporters after his arrest Wednesday.

Police said Casey signed a statement admitting he drove a car through the Willowbrook addition Wednesday firing a .22 rifle. He also admitted he killed a drive-in food store clerk during a $70 robbery last Feb. 21, police said.

The dead in Wednesday's shooting were Beulah K. Davis, 86; Jana Whatley, 10; and Claire Jakubowski, 5.

The wounded, listed in fair condition, were Karen Kurtz and Lynn Tucker, both 10.

Police identified the clerk slain in February as Dorothy Jones Young, 48.

Casey was charged with three counts of murder and two of assault to murder in Wednesday's shooting and with murder and robbery by firearms in the Young slaying.

Casey blamed Wednesday's shooting on a fight with his girl-friend, a quantity of beer and marijuana and the murder of his father.

He told officers his father, Theron, a chemical controller working out of Newark, N.J., was robbed and killed in New York City in June, 1970. He said the elder Casey was killed by two heroin addicts, and "ever since then I had a real grudge."

Police identified the clerk slain in February as Dorothy Jones Young, 48.

Casey was charged with three counts of murder and two of assault to murder in Wednesday's shooting and with murder and robbery by firearms in the Young slaying.

Casey blamed Wednesday's shooting on a fight with his girl-friend, a quantity of beer and marijuana and the murder of his father.

He told officers his father, Theron, a chemical controller working out of Newark, N.J., was robbed and killed in New York City in June, 1970. He said the elder Casey was killed by two heroin addicts, and "ever since then I had a real grudge."

Police said Casey signed a statement admitting he drove a car through the Willowbrook addition Wednesday firing a .22 rifle. He also admitted he killed a drive-in food store clerk during a $70 robbery last Feb. 21, police said.

The dead in Wednesday's shooting were Beulah K. Davis, 86; Jana Whatley, 10; and Claire Jakubowski, 5.

The wounded, listed in fair condition, were Karen Kurtz and Lynn Tucker, both 10.

Super-Board Pushed Again

Creation of a super board to direct all resources development in British Columbia forests was urged Wednesday for the second time in two days.

The board should be made up of representatives of the government, industry and the general public, a SPEC (Scientific Pollution and Environment Control committee) brief outlined to the legislature committee on forestry and fishing.

"It is our feeling that the public, who in fact own the resources have been largely ignored in decision making," SPEC executive secretary Thom Thompson told the MLAs.

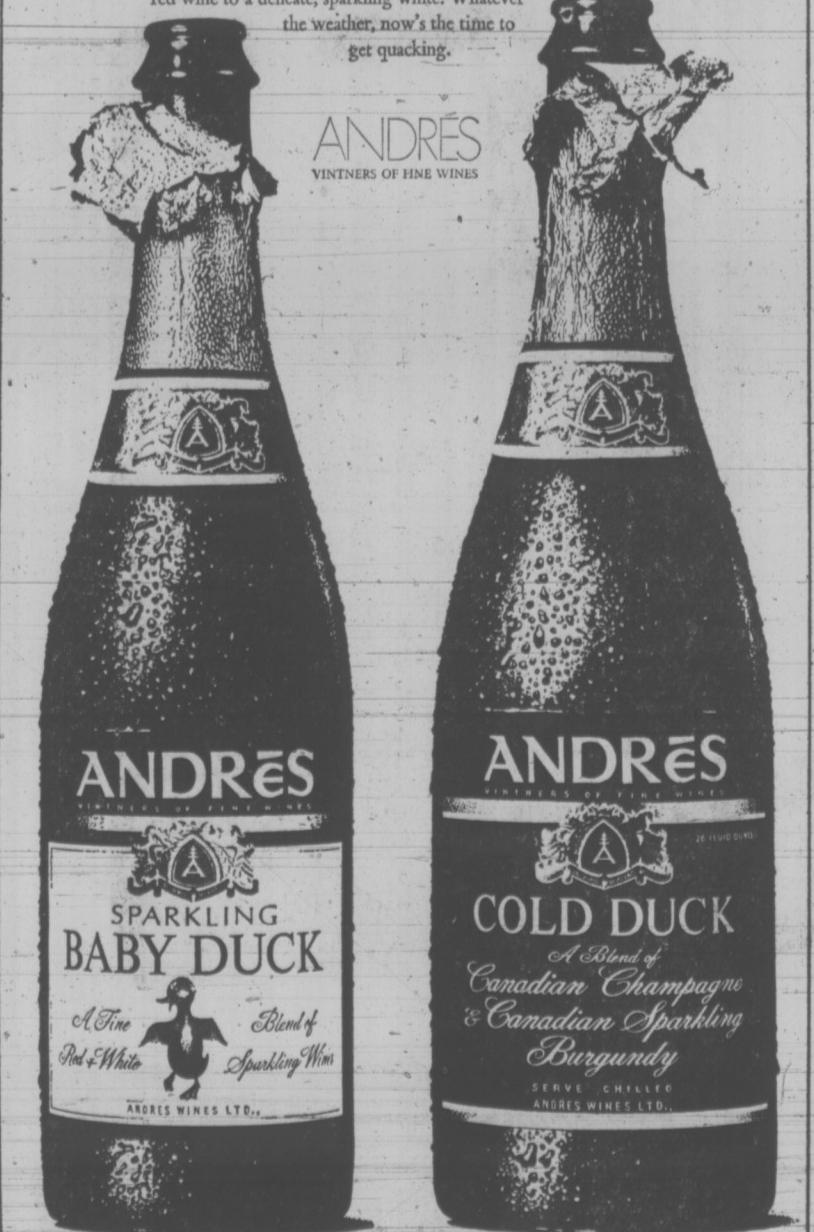

"The concept of management residing solely in the hands of experts no longer has the note of confidence-inspiration it once had."

"The general public is the only interest group that can adequately express the demand for that section of multiple use coming under the heading of recreation," he said.

When it comes to your favorite André's Duck, pleasure knows no season. André's Cold Duck, a beautiful blend of champagne and burgundy. Or André's Baby Duck, the happy marriage of a robust red wine to a delicate, sparkling white. Whatever the weather, now's the time to get quacking.

Reunion to Mark Gordons' Start

The Canadian Scottish (Princess Mary's) Regiment will hold a reunion May 25 to 27 to mark the 60th anniversary of the forming of the 50th Gordons, its predecessors.

The 50th Gordons was the Victoria contingent that went to Valcartier in 1913 to join with the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, the Seaforth Highlanders and the Cameron Highlanders to form the 16th Battalion Canadian Scottish.

The battalion earned the name of "fighting 16th," winning four Victoria Crosses during the First World War.

After the war's end it became the Canadian Scottish (Princess Mary's) Regiment.

Reunion activities begin Friday, May 25, with an 8 p.m. reception at Bay Street Armoury.

The next day at 10 a.m. there will be a reunion gathering in the sergeants' mess. At 3 p.m. Freedom of the City ceremonies will be carried out at the Empress Hotel with the regiment being inspected at the Legislative Buildings.

A ball will be held at 9 p.m. in the armoury that evening.

At 10:15 a.m. on the Sunday a reunion church service will be held at Christ Church Cathedral, followed by a wreath-laying ceremony in Pioneer Square.

Following the ceremony an all-ranks lunch will be held at 11:30 a.m. in the armoury and at 1:30 p.m. there will be a .22 rifle shooting competition and a tour of the regimental museum. Closing ceremonies will take place at 3 p.m. in the armoury.

Serving members of the regiment from Port Alberni, Nanaimo and Victoria will attend, as well as members of the Canadian Scottish Cadet Corps of Port Alberni, Courtenay, Nanaimo and Victoria.

All events will be open to ex-members of the regiment, their families and friends.

The woman seemed stunned when the judge dismissed the case she had brought before the court.

An acquaintance, another woman without any legal training, had planned to represent her when she appeared in small debts court with a complaint against her landlord.

But a few moments after the case opened, the landlord's lawyer pointed out that she had named the wrong defendant. She should have named the company that owns the apartment building in which she lives. Instead she named the president of the company, the man she recognized as her landlord.

In the same court house, a week earlier, a man — who sought damages against his landlord for failing to make repairs — had to argue for more than an hour with a stand-in clerk who felt the man did not have a case to put before the court.

The tenant won his argument with the clerk but when he went to court — without a lawyer — he lost the case after citing the wrong paragraph in the Landlord and Tenant Act under which he sought to get the claim.

These two cases might be indicative of the problems faced by poor people seeking redress in small debts court when they feel they have been unfairly treated by their landlords.

The small debts court is "a layman's court," says lawyer Edward Pollard, "but, of course, it's not quite that in practice, when the landlord has a lawyer and the tenant doesn't."

Pollard is civil law chairman of the Victoria's legal aid program.

Legal aid does not give advice or represent people who have complaints before the small debts court, the court empowered to settle claims under the Landlord and Tenant Act.

"There's been lots of progress made in this area in the last few years and things will get better," Pollard predicts.

He notes the establishment of a full-time Legal Aid office in Victoria — planned for this summer — will provide more assistance to poor people going before the courts.

John Woods, manager of the city-sponsored Landlord and Tenant Advisory Bureau, says sent poor people in small debts court with legal aid.

"The effectiveness of small debts court in such cases is a matter of considerable concern."

Tenants who go before the courts "certainly appear to me to be at a considerable disadvantage if they don't have a lawyer," he says.

The bureau does give counsel to tenants — as well as landlords — before they go to court, if the case reaches that point. But it does not employ lawyers who will go to court with clients.

If a provision of the Landlord and Tenant Act is violated where redress may be sought through the criminal courts — a case where a fine may be levied against a guilty landlord — the bureau may also recommend that the tenant go to the prosecutor of the provincial court.

Other counsel is available at "clinics" conducted by legal aid lawyers. They are held in Victoria at: the Law Courts at 5 p.m., Wednesdays; at the Victoria West Community Centre, at 7:30 p.m. Mondays; and at the Cool-Aid Hostel also at 7:30 p.m. Mondays.

IT'S A NICKEL SAVED

Pay phone users in B.C. won't have to part with an extra nickel to make that phone call — not for awhile anyway.

A spokesman for B.C. Tel said the company "has no plans" to follow a move by Pacific Northwest Bell which will increase pay phone calls to 15 cents in Washington State in May.

"To date we (B.C. Tel) have made no representations to the CTC (Canadian Transport Commission) for an increase in rates. That's about all we can say about it," the spokesman said.

"We're continually looking at our rate structure and a lot of it depends on whether costs get out of line," he added.

"That's when we'd have to make representations to the CTC, but it's not that way yet."

A spokesman for the Seattle-based Pacific Northwest Bell, which services Washington, Oregon and part of Idaho, blamed the need for the increase on "higher costs for installation and maintenance of booths. It wasn't compensatory for 10 cents a call," he said.

"We had requested that the rate go up a dime, but the Washington Transportation and Utilities Commission felt it was too much, so it was left at a nickel."

He said the phone company hasn't increased the rate for 20 years previous to this raise.

UVic Sits Pat Over Tenders

The University of Victoria's board of governors has still not accepted a bid on the contract for its new physical education, athletic and recreation centre.

Construction was to start in early March.

The board had 60 days to consider the two tenders received before bidding ended Feb. 15.

But at its monthly meeting the board did not accept either bid, as both are far higher than the $2.25 million originally estimated as the cost of the building.

Discussions are going on between the lowest bidder, Farmer Construction Ltd., and the architects, Rhone and Iredale of Vancouver, to see if there is a way to reduce the cost of the project, a board spokesman said today.

The board authorized UVic president Dr. Hugh Farquhar, dean of administration Trevor Matthews and campus planner Ian Campbell to award the contract if a suitable deal can be worked out, he said.

Farmer construction's bid was $2.82 million for building and utility extensions of the new centre. The second bid, by Cana Construction Co. Ltd., was $2.83 million.

The reinforced concrete and steel centre will be built on the outer side of the Ring Road near the playing fields on campus.

It will house a large gymnasium, swimming pool, apparatus gymnasium, squash and badminton courts, as well as classrooms, laboratories and necessary offices.

Capital funds are already available for the building.

YOUR HEALTH: Dr. Walter Alvarez

'Turista' Spread by Virus

As many people know, perhaps from sad experience, visitors going into some countries — especially Central and South America — may spend his first night in the bathroom, with an overly active bowel. In Mexico this condition is called tourismo (the disease of tourists), also turista or Montezuma's revenge.

Years ago, it was assumed that the cause of the turista was an amoeba, a microscopic single-cell organism that lives in some people's bowels and can produce diarrhea. Then, a big effort was made by able Mexican and North American physicians at the big University of Mexico laboratories to find the cause. They showed that the disease is not due to amoebias, but to virus.

Now I read that in the great National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md., Dr. A. Z. Kapikian, head of a research team, has managed to photograph the virus, which is only one-millionth of an inch in diameter.

Actually, turista doesn't happen only in Latin America. A while ago, a report was made after questioning 100 or more exchange students who had gone to various European countries to study. It was found that many who went to the Mediterranean countries such as Italy were more often attacked by this diarrhea than were the students who went to northern countries such as Sweden and Holland.

It would seem wise, when traveling in countries in which the water supply is not well guarded, to avoid drinking water. Instead drink bottled water, carbonated drinks, or beer or wine. Also, drink fluids without ice, which can be made of water which has the virus in it, or which has been handled by a waiter, who perhaps has infected hands.

It is important to have bottled fluids brought to the person's table and opened there. Also it may be well not to eat any cold foods that could have been handled by cooks or waiters.

Alberta Talks Tough Citing Freight Cost

EDMONTON (CP) — Premier Peter Lougheed has set the tone that Alberta will carry to a major federal-provincial conference this summer: Tough.

And since the four western provinces have agreed to do their best to present a united front at the Calgary conference on western economic opportunities, Mr. Lougheed's attitude is expected to spread.

The premier's new, tough attitude was revealed Wednesday in a 90-minute speech in the legislature that dealt heavily with Eastern Canada, and he had virtually nothing good to say about it.

Mr. Lougheed drew desk-thumping applause from both sides of the legislature as he outlined his case against the "golden triangle" of Eastern Canada, the railways and what he called the Toronto-based New Democratic Party.

He said transportation will be the key item at the Calgary conference. Transportation inequities were blocking development of Alberta and enriching the already-rich industrial triangle centred in Toronto.

STEEL COSTS MORE

He detailed freight rates which he said are biased against Alberta industries. Structural steel shipped from Hamilton to Calgary cost $2.46 per 100 pounds in freight rates, he said. It only cost $1.64 to make the same shipment from Hamilton to Vancouver.

Rapeseed sent east from Lethbridge for processing cost only 70.5 cents per 100 pounds. But if processed, thus giving Alberta more industry, the cost was $1.22.

Mr. Lougheed also criticized national trucking companies, saying the big centres of Toronto and Montreal get "preferential" rates.

The railways themselves, not the freight rates set by the government, received the strongest blast in the premier's address on Alberta's $1.5-billion budget.

He demanded "here and now" that Canadian National Railways and CP Rail make "full disclosure" of their costs in shipping goods to and from the West.

Until this is done, little progress could be made to improve the country's transportation system.

The premier also said Ontario consumers import 13 million tons of coal a year from the United States "while it just sits here under ground in Alberta." Freight rates made it too expensive to ship Alberta coal to Ontario.

The premier also criticized T. C. Douglas of the NDP for urging that Alberta oil be kept in Canada.

This showed the NDP wants Alberta to refrain from "rocking the boat" and from fighting the East over where new industrial developments should go.

He rejected the idea of federal price controls on crude oil and any move to control farm prices.

"People who want price controls at the (gasoline) pump should do a quick review of the loss of income because any such move would lead to price controls at the wellhead."

Janitor's Job, Pay For Former Matron

Discrimination has ended in one part of Greater Victoria school board's operations with the announcement that a former matron has assumed "full janitorial duties."

The woman, a Canadian Union of Public Employees worker in the Camosun College buildings, is performing all heavy work duties and receiving janitors' rate of pay.

The issue of female matrons versus male janitors was a major one in the recent 26-day strike by CUPE Local 382 against the school district.

Under the contract prior to the strike women had been hired as matrons with a lower rate of pay. Their day-time work shifts were to be shorter and heavy cleaning duties were to be left to janitors.

The union charged discrimination saying only women were hired as matrons, and only men as janitors. The matrons, the union said, were in fact performing the same duties as janitors and working equal hours.

The school board denied the discrimination charges, but the new contract, signed Feb. 7, created a new position of day-cleaner to replace the category of matrons and the pay difference between janitors and day cleaners was narrowed.

Board chairman Peter Bunn said at that time men and women could apply for either job, adding there would be "no more sex in cleaning."

The woman day-cleaner began her janitorial role April 9.

Child Rights: 'Nothing Is Ever Done'

MONTREAL (CP) — A 20-year-old woman told an international conference on children's rights of a childhood spent in detention homes, mental hospitals and foster homes.

Diane Prevost, born of an unwed mother, was placed at birth in a Montreal orphanage and spent the next 18 years in a series of institutions, sometimes locked in a cage.

She said her experience has taught her that talk of children's rights is just talk and nothing more. "Nothing is ever done."

At the age of five she was sent to a foster home for abandoned children and was transferred five years later to a home that cared for mentally ill and retarded children in Shawbridge, Que., 30 miles north of here.

Miss Prevost told the conference Monday she stayed at the home until she was visited by a woman who said she was her mother.

"I couldn't believe it. I didn't even know I had a mother because at Shawbridge they had always told me she was dead."

She left the home with her mother only to discover she was a prostitute "who used to bring men home with her and have terrible fights with them."

"My mother used to beat me ... tried to debouch me and I was terribly afraid of her, so finally I ran away."

Mother and daughter were soon to sent to separate psychiatric institutions.

"I was told I was going to a convent but when I arrived at the hospital a girl told me: 'This is a nut-house, it's a madhouse.'

"No one sat down to talk to me or explain what I was doing there. They just gave me an injection and continued to give me all sorts of drugs."

"What could I do or think? I was a child of 12, with no affection from anyone, only people who told me I was mad."

Throughout this period Miss Prevost received no education at all — in fact, until she was 18, she had only the equivalent of Grade 4 schooling.

At 15 she was sent to Centre Berthelet, "supposedly a rehabilitation centre for juvenile delinquents."

"But I was not a delinquent, my record was entirely clear."

"We were not allowed to go out. They kept us in cages like dogs . . ."

She finally appeared before a sympathetic judge and was ordered to undergo a training program to make up her elementary school education and now is attending high school.

"I'm doing quite well now," she told the conference. "But when I hear people talk of the rights of children I know that's all it is — talk. Nothing is ever done."

The conference, sponsored by the Canadian Mental Health Association and the World Federation of Mental Health, ended this week.

Miss Janzow

VON CHIEF NAMED

Esther Janzow has been appointed director of the Victoria Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses. She replaces Mrs. Faith Stanley who has acted as director since last December.

Miss Janzow worked with the VON in Victoria from 1958 to 1963. She served as rehabilitation consultant to the Toronto VON from 1963 to 1968.

Miss Janzow graduated from Royal Columbian Hospital School of Nursing in 1941 and served with the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps in England and Germany.

The new director describes her job as a tremendous challenge to try and meet patients' needs while giving nursing care in the home.

She is particularly interested in the B.C. government's home care program for patients discharged from hospital and the proposed school of nursing at the University of Victoria.

Miss Janzow has taught nursing at Vancouver City College and Vancouver General Hospital. She has a BScN degree from the University of British Columbia and an MA majoring in psychiatric nursing from the University of Washington.

Seniors Gain Fuller Lives When Wards Lose Starch

By ANN DUNSMUIR
Times Staff

The cliché "the operation was a success but the patient died" often describes the treatment of elderly residents in extended care institutions according to Vera McIver, director of hospital services at St. Mary's Priory Hospital on Goldstream Road.

She believes that medical techniques suitable for short-term patients in acute care hospitals lead to physical deterioration and senility when they are applied to elderly residents in extended care.

Mrs. McIver says staff in many extended care hospitals nurse the institution instead of the patient. Nurses are more interested in dry beds and neat wards than they are in individuals.

Patients are tidied up for the day and left to stare for hours at blank walls. They soon become disoriented from lack of sensory stimulation and human contact.

Anxieties which could be alleviated by a few minutes reassurance are treated with sedatives because nurses are busy nursing charts and linen supplies instead of people.

Mrs. McIver thinks that when staff treat old age as an illness, the elderly respond by becoming invalids.

Her approach to extended care stresses health and total well being. Residents are encouraged to remain independent and mobile.

No Motivation

When Mrs. McIver came to the priory in 1967, the hospital had many bedridden patients who needed to be fed. Mrs. McIver believed these patients had the physical ability to feed themselves but lacked the motivation.

Residents were patiently taught to feed themselves — the first step toward independence and a better self-image. By the end of her first year as director the number of patients who needed to be fed dropped from 30 to 11 per cent.

Little Tricks

Mealtimes at the hospital are a time for socializing and, although residents aren't aware of it, therapy. Food is served in large bowls so that people have to stretch aging muscles to serve themselves and pass the dish.

This system also has built-in psychological advantages. Patients who are more capable help weaker table mates.

"It makes a patient feel good to know she can still help someone," Mrs. McIver said.

She uses all sorts of little tricks, to keep patients active and involved with living instead of dying. For example, mail used to be delivered to patients in their rooms.

Now it is handed out at a central location by a spry resident who acts as postmistress. She also delivers mail to residents who don't feel up to the trip to the improvised post office.

Mrs. McIver disagrees with administrators who claim elderly patients must be confined to bed because of staff shortages. She points out that one nurse can look after 20 patients in a lounge area where six would be needed for bedside care.

Money Saved

She argues that the time consumed in keeping elderly patients active results in a $50,000 saving for the hospital.

The priory uses only five pounds of linen per patient daily. Other hospitals which don't encourage patients to use bathroom facilities use 18 pounds of linen per patient daily at a cost of 10 cents a pound.

"Old age isn't an illness but we lump the elderly with the sick in our society," Mrs. McIver said.

Staff at the priory wear street clothes instead of hospital white and routine nursing bustle has been replaced by patience and consideration.

"If a patient wants to help, the housekeeper sort linen it's more important for her to feel useful than for the job to be finished on time," Mrs. McIver said.

Mrs. McIver says all staff members are expected to become totally involved in patient care. The system of meal delivery illustrates the hospital's basic philosophy.

And handicrafts at the priory amount to a lot more than basket weaving. Last year patients made wine — an activity that would shock most nurses in charge right out of their starched hospital whites.

Mrs. McIver says no one person can take credit for changes that make life livable for patients.

"We all work as a team. And because we are a small hospital we can initiate change without resistance from too many disciplines."

Husbands are often invited to dinner at the priory. Mrs. McIver pointed out a husband taking his wife for a walk in the grounds.

"He is doing therapy for us," Mrs. McIver said. "The least we can do is offer hospitality in return."

There are no set visiting hours and grandchildren are welcome to bring their pets. In fact, the priory must show

Joe Jobs Criticized

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Joyce Bowerman says she wants to see the last of the attitude that confines women to the joe job level in political organizations.

"I'd like to get rid of that very negative feeling that exists that women are nothing but the coffee pourers and the envelope stuffers," she said.

"A lot of women don't want to get too far from home, and we need them. But women are phenomenal organizers."

Mrs. Bowerman is the recently elected president of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Women's Association.

She said she ran for the job because she wants to be active between elections and because she regards it as a training ground for other political work.

"I went after a nomination a couple of years ago. I might run as an MPP if the opportunity presents itself because I'm more interested in provincial jurisdictions.

"But I'm enjoying back room politics so much."

'Help's a Put-Down' To Fallen Children

MONTREAL (CP) — A Toronto psychiatrist said Tuesday parents and various institutions involved in child care should remember when helping children that "help of any kind only weakens when it is not necessary."

Dr. Clive Chamberlain of the Clarke Institute of Psychiatry said that children are beings in themselves, not "miniature adults," and they should not be over-protected.

Children should be allowed to fall, stumble and suffer because "all help, however necessary, is a put-down and loss of self-esteem."

Chamberlain said that when there are conflicts between parents and children anyone who tries to help can only interfere.

"It is just too easy to be wise with someone else's children," he said. "As long as the family is intact, our services and institutions should support, not undermine it . . . undermining adults only ends up making children even weaker."

BEEF STILL HEADS MEAT POPULARITY

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians gobble up an average of 165.8 pounds of meat last year, compared with 164.8 pounds in 1971, Statistics Canada reported Wednesday.

More than half the red meat consumed — 92.5 pounds, compared with 86.9 the year before — was beef, followed by pork consumption at 65.9 pounds, compared with 61.1 in 1971.

These meat mainstays were supplemented by an average 4.6 pounds of lamb and mutton — up from 3.3 pounds — and 3.5 pounds of veal — down from 4.4 pounds.

Consumers also ate more chicken and duck, but turkey consumption remained the same and goose consumption dropped. On the average, people ate 34.5 pounds of chicken compared with 33.6 in 1971, 10.4 pounds of turkey and a little less than three ounces of goose. Duck consumption rose slightly to four ounces.

Accept Mom's Word

DEAR ABBY: I am 30 years old and reasonably well adjusted although I grew up without a father.

My mother told me that a few months after she married my father he was killed in the war. It didn't take too much intelligence to figure out that if my father had really been killed in the war he would have been considered a hero in the eyes of his widow, and she'd have kept his memory alive with pictures, letters and souvenirs to be shared with his family. It also seemed strange to me that I had never met one relative on my father's side.

I have concluded that I am illegitimate. Believe me, I love my mother and I am not judging her regardless of what the facts were, but I would like to know who my father was. Should I ask my mother? — Curious Daughter

DEAR CURIOUS: You say you "love" your mother, and I'm sure you do. For 30 years you've given her no reason to suspect that you doubted her explanation. Leave it that way, dear.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 14-year-old daughter who is so boy crazy she worries me sick. All she thinks about is boys. She's got boys' names written all over her books. And every piece of paper by the telephone is marked up with initials and boys' names.

When the doorbell rings she runs like lightning to talk to any delivery boy it happens to be.

What really bothers me is she lies. I don't allow her to go in cars with boys so she walks to a girl's house and the boys meet her with a car there. I found this out by reading her diary. I asked her for the truth and she lied to cover up her lies. How can I get the truth out of her? — Mrs. G.

DEAR MRS. G.: The only reason children lie is because they haven't the courage to tell the truth. Give your daughter that courage by assuring her that no matter what she has done you will understand and forgive her.

Perhaps your threats are too frightening and your punishments too severe. Give your child plenty of love and expect the best, and you'll rarely be disappointed.

DEAR ABBY: I just found out that a real neat guy I used to know in high school is stationed at a naval base near here. (He's an officer.) I haven't been in touch with him for a couple of years, but I hear he's not married anymore. (Neither am I.)

I've always had a thing for this guy, and he liked me, too, but the timing was never right. Anyway, now that we're both free do you think it would be a good idea if I drove over to the base and surprised him?

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 and single. I am interested in men, but I am not

men.

I am interested in men.

By NANCY WARD

LONDON (FWP) — There has probably never been a time when women have been more obsessed with hanging on desperately to youth — and an extremely expensive process this obsession can be.

Cosmetic surgeons the world over have grown rich through devising all sorts of ingenious methods which give middle-aged and elderly women the illusion of protracted youthfulness. Every age-combatting device, from facelifts to youthfully tucked and stitched bosoms and bottoms is used.

At health farms women submit to starvation diets and painful pummelling and exercises so that they can emerge at the end of such a highly priced endurance test looking slimmer and younger.

Yet for all of us, no matter how fierce our efforts to cheat the calendar, there comes a day when our mirror ceases to be our friend because it shows us all too clearly that the years are beginning to show.

'Omelettes Beat Cosmetics'

The sight of a first grey hair is depressing! The incipient sagging of a once-firm and youthful chin, the appearance of wrinkles which can no longer be airy dismissed as laughter lines, can cause despondency and alarm.

Now, however, it seems that middle-aged blues can be delayed — for quite a long time, and without spending a fortune on beauty camouflage either. The answer to long-lasting youth, it now appears, is easy, cheap and cheerful. From now on the thing to do is to stop peering morosely into the mirror for dismal signs of advancing age. Instead, go into the kitchen and cook yourself an omelette.

Food scientists have just come up with a super formula for prolonging youth, and eggs, vegetable oils and cereal products are a vital part of the age-fighting formula.

Those good old breakfast favorites, cereal and eggs, could make a new and younger woman of you.

Dr. Ronald Walker, of Surrey University's department of biochemistry, is exploring the theory that anti-oxidants — in which eggs, vegetable oils and cereals are rich — can prolong life by stimulating the activity of certain enzymes within the liver which cleanse the bloodstream of its poisons. Experiments have already been conducted in which the life span of animals has been extended by massive doses of the vitamin tocopherol which has anti-oxidant properties.

"The idea is not merely to keep people alive long," Doctor Walker said. "Science can already maintain the aged long after pleasure in life has ended. This new idea, in which the bloodstream is super-efficiency cleansed, will prolong youth, vigorous life which can be enjoyed to the full."

Besides the benefits to be derived from this new young-idea tocopherol food regime, additional chemicals and hormones, designed to slow the ageing processes of the body's cells, are also being developed.

In our youth-oriented world, where women have never before spent such vast amounts of money in attempts to hang onto girlish good looks — the news that a change in eating habits could help their appearance and health much more than expensive creams and cosmetic surgery must come as a beautiful surprise. Imagine it — bikini-clad sirens of 60, lithe, lively and unlined grandmothers, frolic-ing and expending if omelettes, cooked in vegetable oil, and with a little cereal added, can give us added youth and beauty time?

Good old eggs, cereal and oil. So much more easy and pleasant a beauty treatment than guawaying a lettuce leaf or submitting to the cosmetic surgeon's knife in order to be uncomfortably whittled into youthful shape.

Thank goodness they have discovered what tocopherol can do for us. A good big helping of youth for breakfast every morning. What could be simpler? Thus fortified, I am determined to make it as a supple and svelte swinging 70-year-old!

Some Thoughts on Grass

After we built our house, we found that there was a little strip of dirt running all around it. If it had been a bigger strip, it might have been called a lawn, but as it was, even the neighborhood cats sneered at it.

The only ones to use the strip were the children, who brought it in every night in the cuffs of their jeans and under their toenails. Every time they took a bath, two per cent of our topsoil gurgled down to plug up the drain.

I decided at last to broach the subject of putting in a lawn. "Honey," I began, "how do you feel about grass?"

"Should be legalized," he muttered, engrossed in the sports page.

"I'm talking about a lawn!"

"Why grass?" he mused, as a crafty gleam appeared in his eye. "Let's put in a cash crop! Better yet, I'll write to Trudeau and see whether he'll pay us for not growing wheat!"

While he drafted a letter to Ottawa, I drove to the garden supply store. One hundred and forty three dollars later I arrived home. "What in the borrowed cats had ignored the strip. Next we carefully adjusted the grade, so that the rain would run into our neighbor's basement instead of our own.

The fertilizer spreader caused the first hitch. It clammed up completely and refused to release a thing when it was moving, but belched out a pound at a time whenever my husband paused to lick his blisters.

"%-%?" he shouted, and flung the spreader through the basement window. Snarling under his breath, he flung grass seed onto the piles of fertilizer and stormed into the house to kick the dog.

We just might have had a lawn in spite of it all, if we just hadn't gotten three inches of rain that night. But you should see the stand of grass in our neighbor's basement.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

A Victoria man who wanted to clear up a series of Ottawa-based charges was sentenced to six months concurrent on each charge after his present term in Wilkinson Road Jail for robbery ends.

Richard A. MacDonald pleaded guilty in provincial court Wednesday to four offences: an Oct. 28 charge of common assault; theft under $200, Oct. 28; failing to meet bail conditions and an Oct. 24 charge of committing mischief by wilfully damaging the window of a car.

MacDonald told Judge William Ostler he is serving a sentence of two years less a day definite and two years indeterminate after he was convicted Feb. 2 of a Vancouver robbery.

Labelled by Ostler a "violent man" who has had a "good many fights," MacDonald said that "everytime I win a fight I get arrested and everytime I lose, I just lay there and bleed."

A 25-year-old Victoria man whose pre-sentence report said he "showed promise and intelligence" was sentenced to four months concurrent in a forestry camp for three counts of obtaining food and lodging by fraud and one charge of breaching probation.

Judge Ostler also ordered that David M. Anderson, 25, of 805 Deneen, make restitution for the cheques totalling $395.35 he had issued to the Red Lion Motor Inn between March 2 and March 13.

A one-year's probationary term was also ordered for Anderson.

U.K. Jobless Rate Steady

LONDON (AP) — Unemployment in Britain remained steady in April at three per cent of the working population, the department of employment announced.

But in real terms a downward trend which started last August continued.

On April 9 there were 691,866 persons out of work—9,229 more than in March. But the total included 44,107 adult students registering for vacation work.

In Northern Ireland, the total was 35,597, up 1,973 from March but including 3,532 students. The unemployed represented 7.1 per cent of the working population.

Food Color Banned

OTTAWA (CP) — Benzyl Violet 4B, a synthetic food colour used in some candy, beverages, bakery and dairy products, meat marking inks and pet foods, is being removed from the list of dyes permitted in foods in Canada.

Federal health department officials said Wednesday food manufacturers will be given until Aug. 1 to reformulate food products containing the food color, but no action would be taken regarding products already on the market.

Ostler described the act as "particularly mean, miserable thing to do," but allowed Lockyer four months to pay the fine when he was told Lockyer's unemployment cheque would have to cover it.

'Do-Nothing' Attitude Blasted

Provincial Liberal leader David Anderson Wednesday attacked the provincial government for a "do-nothing" attitude on oil spills.

Anderson clashed heatedly with NDP backbenchers on the legislature oil spill committee who voted down his attempt to get an interim report before the legislature before it recessed.

Anderson sought the appointment of a provincial official to co-ordinate oil spill clean-up activities.

Five NDP backbenchers on the committee voted down Anderson's proposal and pushed through a resolution to make no recommendations to the government before the next session of the legislature, likely in the fall.

Anderson was the only opposition member present.

Before the committee voted to suspend hearings, it received documents on federal preparations for oil spills from two departments of transport officials.

Herbert Buchanan of Vancouver, regional director of marine services for the department of transport, said his department has the prime responsibility for directing oil spill clean-up in the province.

He told the committee he would welcome appointment of a single person to represent the provincial government so that clean-up work can be co-ordinated.

The provincial government (Social Credit at the time) should have taken a stronger role in cleaning up Crescent Beach after the Cherry Point oil spill, Buchanan said, but otherwise he was satisfied with provincial assistance in other spills.

Buchanan disagreed with the report by Howard Paish and Associates on the Alert Bay oil spill in several particulars.

He quoted the Paish report as saying that a delay in reporting the spill to the MOT resulted in a delay of clean-up activities.

Buchanan said the MOT had eventually clean up the beach. William Stuart of Ottawa, Canada's senior oil pollution officer, spoke only briefly.

He said the recent U.S.-Canada agreement on marine environment protection has been approved by Ottawa and the provinces but was being delayed in the U.S.

More Quality On FM Radio

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Radio-Television Commission today proposed to make private FM radio broadcasting "demonstrably different" than AM radio, offering higher-quality programs to selective audiences.

The commission issued a proposal for an FM radio policy which will be followed by a "final policy document" and when this is issued, FM broadcasters "will be expected to commence necessary changes in programming immediately." The commission will issue a new set of program categories to cover both AM and FM broadcasting.

There will be separate discussions with the Crown-owned CBC regarding its policies for both AM and FM broadcasting.

To separate programming on the two frequencies, the commission proposes that immediately after publication of the final policy document, holders of AM and FM licences will cut by half "simulcasting." And within six months, it must end "except

Victoria Sends 3 To Cities' Talks

Victoria city council will be represented by three members at a May 7 meeting in Toronto of representatives of 18 cities.

Mayor Peter Pollen, Ald. Alf Hood and Ald. Mike Young will attend the meeting called by Toronto Mayor David Crombie to discuss relations between cities and the federal government.

Pollen recently returned from visiting Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau with a delegation of mayors. At that time he strongly criticized Trudeau's "regal" attitude to city problems.

The mayor says parliamentary backbenchers should play a larger part in serving the community they represent.

He also wants to discuss frustration of community objectives by corporate interests, decentralization of government and an overhaul of the current tax structure.

Manitoba Tax Hike Unlikely for 7 Years

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba will probably not need a tax increase for the next seven years, according to Premier Ed Schreyer.

Schreyer said the buoyant economy shows all signs of continuing until the end of the decade.

"At least there are more reasons to be optimistic than there are to be pessimistic." However, the premier said more meaningful interpretations are needed to determine economic prosperity and the effects of unemployment.

CUPE Won't Sign

EDMONTON (CP) — Union locals in the 35 Alberta hospitals where workers are represented by the Canadian Union of Public Employees are refusing to sign contracts, say union negotiators Art Roberts of Calgary and Fred Pyke of Edmonton.

Contracts will not be signed until all bargaining units had accepted the settlement proposals.

About one-third of the locals have rejected proposed contracts while the rest have given approval by slim margins.

Roberts said he has also told provincial Health Minister Neil Crawford that employees at nursing homes are "contemplating walking off the job."

Disposables Ban

REGINA (CP) — The government intends to ban the use of cans and non-refillable containers in the soft drink industry in Saskatchewan, according to Environment Minister Neil Byers.

Byers didn't say when the ban might go into effect. "An appropriate time interval will be provided for the phasing out of these types of containers."

Byers also announced that the government will make it mandatory for off-sale beer vendors and liquor board stores to accept empties.

Land Controls

EDMONTON (CP) — A bill which would give the government control over virtually any type of operation that disrupts the land surface outside of communities and agricultural lands was introduced Wednesday in the legislature.

Under the bill, the cabinet may ask all companies planning any action liable to damage the land surface to ask for prior approval from the government. The government must be satisfied that adequate reclamation procedures are planned.

Mine to Expand

EDMONTON (CP) — McIntyre Porcupine Mines Ltd. has been granted a permit by the energy resources conservation board to extend its strip mining operations at Grande Cache, 230 miles west of Edmonton.

Contracts will not be signed until all bargaining units had accepted the settlement proposals.

About one-third of the locals have rejected proposed contracts while the rest have given approval by slim margins.

Roberts said he has also told provincial Health Minister Neil Crawford that employees at nursing homes are "contemplating walking off the job."

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

Barbara Brent

TORONTO, April 19th — I've talked with many seasoned travellers and they agree . . . changes in climate, food and water . . . or just nervous excitement . . . often cause nausea, cramps and diarrhea. But they've found, as I have, that DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY does bring quick, gentle relief. You see, Dr. Fowler's is formulated from roots and herbs, is non-constipating and, in fact, has proven effective for over 6 generations of Canadians. So whether your plans include travelling afar . . . or enjoying your home or cottage . . . always be sure to keep pleasant tasting Dr. Fowler's Extract on hand.

TIME AFTER TIME . . . readers have thanked me for suggesting Dodd's KIDNEY PILLS . . . when they have had a nagging back-ache and tired feeling. You see, Dodd's contain ingredients that bring effective relief by gently stimulating the kidneys to help relieve back-ache and that worn-out feeling. It was interesting to learn from a friend that Dodd's Kidney Pills are also very helpful during menstrual periods. "Dodd's Kidney Pills help relieve excess retention of body fluids resulting in bloating, swelling caused by urinary irritation during the menstrual period," she said. Another reason, I'm sure, why millions of people found relief with Dodd's!

Police Raid Row Brewing

OTTAWA (CP) — A raid by plainclothes policemen on a group of children camping in the Gatineau Hills near here last week has prompted protests to the federal government, the RCMP and Quebec Provincial Police.

Chris Harris, a counsellor at the camp financed by a Local Initiatives Program grant, said Wednesday the April 12 raid left some children in tears.

Harris said a letter deplored the police action during the incident at Lake Heney, 60 miles north of Ottawa, has been sent to Prime Minister Trudeau, Solicitor-General Warren Allmand, and provincial police.

"We were just starting to eat lunch at 2 p.m. when I noticed four men running towards the cabin. They looked like hunters because they all had rifles and wore bush shirts."

Mr. Harris said that when he went outside to find out what the men wanted, he was grabbed by one while the others entered the cabin. Then he, his brother Robert and another staff member were ordered to raise their hands. Teacher Doreen Millin and counsellor Carolyn Boucher remained with the 16 children, aged eight to 16. He said the men were frisked while other policemen interrogated the children, asking their names, ages and parents' names.

After questioning everyone present, an RCMP officer told Mr. Harris they were looking for an Ottawa man. When they left, "they made a slight apology to Doreen."

An RCMP spokesman said they were called in to assist Ottawa City police and the Quebec police.

He said the RCMP were called because there was a possible involvement of drugs but "no drugs were found and no charges were laid."

IT'S A WEEK OF HOLY HORRORS

MANILA (UPI) — Hundreds of bare-backed penitents will be flogged, a former hoodlum nailed to a cross and a week-long, barefoot march undertaken by cross carriers during Holy Week in the Philippines.

It is all part of the ritual performed each year by devoutly religious Filipinos in Asia, will celebrate in less-violent ways, scores of Filipinos, their backs bleeding, will be flogged with whips and thongs in small rural towns.

Today and Good Friday, the typical penitent, stripped to the waist, will carry a cross and don a black hood-topped with a vine crown of thorns.

As he wends his way to church, an assistant will beat him with an ear-shaped panata — a 25-thonged whip — or pinos, their backs bleeding, will be flogged with whips and thongs in small rural towns.

Pedro, about 50 miles north of Manila, to re-enact Christ's crucifixion. He has vowed to repeat the act every year.

While church officials in the Philippines disapprove of the ordeal, it goes on every year, particularly in the countryside.

In past years, a bearded Manila man who once was a brawler has been nailed to a cross in the town of San Francesco, about 50 miles north of Manila, to re-enact Christ's crucifixion. He has vowed to repeat the act every year.

and others — is at the heart of the Christian religion. Before the gospels were written, before Paul and the others wrote their letters, before the church took institutional form, the bread and the wine were being used by Christians in creative remembrance of Him whom they called "Lord".

It is a matter of historical fact that the Lord's Supper came before the New Testament.

tament. The sacramental experience of the earliest Christians was one of the main forces which precipitated the New Testament.

"This do in remembrance of me." (Luke 22:19). Those words were spoken by Jesus to his disciples in the upper room that dark night in Jerusalem. For nearly two thousand years, and in all parts of the world, Christians have been doing this in remembrance of Him. The obedience given to that simple command is one of the great marvels in history.

But the sacrament is not simply a memorial act, as we generally think of such things. The English words "remembrance" and "memorial" do not carry the full impact of meaning carried by Aramaic and Greek words they represent.

Those words pertain to the kind of remembering in which the past is somehow brought right into the present. And when used with respect to the Lord's Supper they declare that that act of worship is not, so to speak, merely a solemn wake in honour of a dead hero but, rather, a creative awareness of the living Lord.

It is this kind of remembering that makes the sacrament the central act of worship for Christians. It is not merely a fulfilment of a duty by the church; it is a way in which the church creates and continually re-creates herself. It is the church's distinctive way of being the church.

Through the years the Lord's Supper has suffered much neglect, much extravagance or frequent distortion in practice and in interpretation. But despite all this, the church, in her main traditions, has maintained that the sacrament is central, not merely peripheral or optional, in her life and worship.

C. H. Dodd, the English Congregationalist minister who is one of the great biblical scholars of our time, has put it in this way: "In this sacrament the whole of what our religion means is expressed."

Paid to Stay Home

LONDON (UPI) — Andrew Shute was paid $106.15 a week to stay away from work. On April 1 he got a raise.

A three-judge appeals court led by Lord Denning, Britain's highest-ranking judge, heard the union-related dispute and recommended that Shute be fired.

But his employer said it would not fire him.

Shute, 54, worked on the barges in the Port of London until six months ago. Then he pulled out of the Transport and General Workers' Union in a dispute with union officers.

The other members of the union refused to work with Shute, unless he rejoined the union. The tug firm that employed him sent him home on full pay and he has not returned since October.

Denning, after the hearing, said Shute was acting "out of malice and with intent to injure."

He recommended the National Dock Labor Board "give permission for Shute to be dismissed."

But a board spokesman said Shute had not broken his terms of employment and thus could not be fired.

"He can be sacked for indiscretions," a spokesman said, "but his is not discipline."

Axing of Column Irks Labor

Victoria Labor Council delegates voted Wednesday night to request an explanation and reasons from The Daily Colonist for the cancellation of Don Collins' column.

The council's motion also said that the column represented the feelings of many readers "and certainly was well received by trade unionists in the area."

John Schibili, council first vice president, said the column got the axe "apparently because it dared step a bit beyond the blue color of the Colonist."

He said that as a result of the decision to cancel the column, Collins had resigned from the newspaper.

Schibili described the Colonist's action as "regrettable" and suggested that perhaps "he was a bit daring for the Colonist."

Neil Hindle, business agent for Local 481 of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, said if the Colonist was going to kill a column, he would suggest "the one on Page 2" (Gordie Hunter) but he would prefer both columns to remain because "we need a balance."

The Colonist, he said, "should be proud to have Don Collins."

Council secretary Larry Ryan said it is "totally untenable that they reject his kind of approach. He added an extra dimension to this newspaper."

Contacted later, Collins said he was writing a "fair column that tended to be a bit satirical. You don't have to be a mind reader to know the satire got to people."

He said it was the newspaper's privilege to take his column away.

"I left because there was no way I could stay under the circumstances. It would be prostituting my integrity."

"I tried to do an honest job. I'm told second or third-hand that my 'brand of humor' was not liked. The same brand of humor won me three writing awards for humor in the east. But that was another time."

Colonist publisher R. J. Bower said today it would be "improper" for him to comment until he receives the labor council's letter.

But he added "he is amazed" that Ryan, Hindle and Schibili "who until now I regarded as responsible would make such hysterical statements without first checking the facts."

SOLUTION MONDAY

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

Many conventional (artificial) bids have come into being during the past decade, being during the past decade. Sometimes they work out beautifully — and sometimes they don't.

In today's deal, we have an example of one of these "revolutionary" bids in action. The deal arose in the 1972 National Championships. Sitting West and East respectively were two of Great Britain's internationalists, Robert Sheehan and Jonathan Cansino. Both sides vulnerable. East deals.

Both sides vulnerable. East deals.

down the ace of clubs, and followed up by leading his remaining club. North now cashed two club tricks, picking up West's last two trumps. He then shifted to the queen of spades, trapping dummy's king. When play had ended, all declarer had made were his two red aces and a trump trick. Thus he went down five, for a loss of 1,400 points.

This deal arose in a team-of-four match. When Cansino's and Sheehan's teams held the North-South cards of the replay, South opened the bidding with one notrump, and played the hand at this contract. He made exactly seven tricks, for a score of 90 points.

And so Cansino's team lost 1,310 points on the deal. Translated into International Match Points (IMPs), this was a loss of 16 IMPs. Of course, in this case, the blame for the catastrophe must be attributed directly to the employment of the "multi-colored" takeout two-club bid.

That Sweet Smell Is Readily Available

One way of beating noxious fumes of oil from our home chimneys and of gas from cars is by filling our gardens with fragrant plants.

Since few trees, other than conifers, give a lengthy period of fragrance, we need to settle for those having the most foliage as contributing the greatest benefit to the environment.

The lowly herbs with fragrance to give when touched, the lilies, roses and violets — so we could fill the garden, but would they give us the maximum of scent for all seasons?

Many others are grown by Victoria gardeners for the richness of their scent, and these have been treasured for years. Such plants can never be out of date or unnecessary to gardens.

A shrub to scent the air for 50 feet is the sunny yellow Rhododendron luteum. It flowers with masses of color when quite a small plant, and because it does so before the leaves are fully out, gardeners call it an azalea. But that doesn't matter, it is the rich honey perfume which counts. The leaves turn a dull crimson in fall.

A small deciduous tree with fragrant flowers is the ordinary Mountain-ash, Sorbus aucuparia. The flowers are followed by scarlet berries in fall, much loved by birds who use them as one of their Thanksgiving feasts.

* * *

Another tree, easily pruned to within your size allowance is the English Hawthorn, Crataegus oxyacantha, just now coming into leaf and bud. It opens in early May to wide flat clusters of scented white or pink little flowers. Here is another tree for the birds, for nesting because it is somewhat thorny, and for its fall crop of fruits.

If you have space to plant one away from tile drains, put in a Balsam-poplar. The smooth, warm spicy scent of its leaves when air temperature is rising, is delightful.

You find it in the woods sometimes, since this is a tree native to the area.

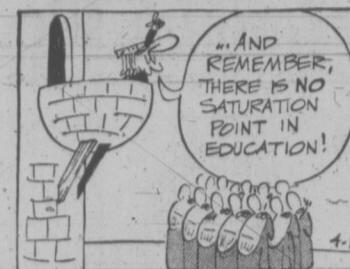

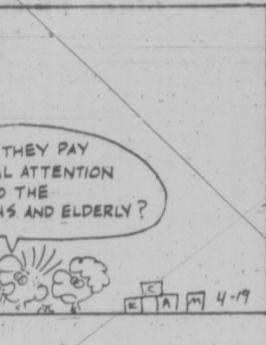

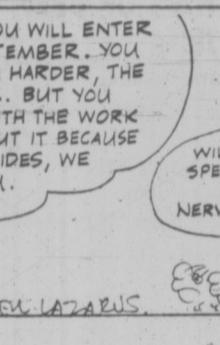

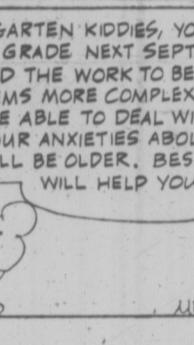

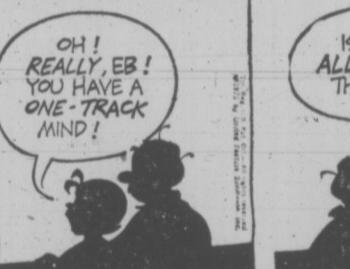

While we expect all Lily-of-the-Valley flowers to be strongly fragrant, this is not true for every genus of plants. Some species and some varietal forms are more fragrant than others in the same genus.

Mock orange (Philadelphus) is more fragrant in some varieties than others; the same is true in lilac. Since these shrubs are quite often available in containers from nurseries, it is not too difficult to buy by smell instead of sight only.

The same applies to climbing honeysuckle. And until you grow the plant to the "masses of flowers" stage you are scarcely aware of any scent at all.

White nicotines for an annual, garden pinks (Dianthus) as perennials, and wallflowers as biennials, these should have space given for enough plants to really make an impact with their seasonal fragrances, for each will contribute freely.

With even this small selection, you will have enough sweet smells in the garden to make your spring and summer meals taste better outdoors.

THREE MILLION GALLONS MISSING

FORT ST. JOHN (CP) — RCMP are investigating the theft of at least three million gallons of petroleum from the Pacific Petroleum plant at Taylor, 11 miles south of here.

Walter Pesehn, plant manager, said he became suspicious in September and contacted police.

Since then, he said, two undercover police officers have been conducting investigations. Last week, police moved in on a number of petroleum bulk dealers, service stations and trucking firms and seized records.

Police have confirmed an investigation was conducted and records were seized. No charges have yet been laid, but an RCMP source said arrests may come within 10 days.

Thefts are believed to have been conducted over the past five to 10 years and could involve as much as seven million gallons of various fuels.

Longest Session Is Over

The legislature was prorogued at 6:03 p.m. Wednesday by Lieutenant-Governor Walter Owen, after the house gave final approval to legislation which will provide the province with government auto insurance next year.

Surgery Slated For UIC

OTTAWA (CP) — Manpower Minister Robert Andras Thursday announced major surgery for the much-maligned Unemployment Insurance Commission—a $14-million facelift to be implemented within the next six months. (See also Page 11.)

The reorganization, Andras said at a news conference, will decentralize the commission's operations, opening up 18 new UIC offices and expanding the facilities of 90 of the existing 298, without increasing the commission's staff.

The plan is designed to offer "more personal, sensitive and immediate" service to claimants and to inform people early of their rights and obligations under the program. To do this, Andras said, the UIC will divide the workload of each office so that one insurance officer is responsible for the whole of a claimant's contact with the UIC—from his application for benefits to its approval or rejection.

A system of emergency payments, available to claimants who might be forced to seek welfare assistance if obliged to wait for a regular cheque, is planned for by the end of August.

The department is conducting a study aimed at culling disqualifying claimants seeking to appeal to a board of appeal referees.

The UIC handles about 14 million inquiries a year, Chairman Guy Cousineau told the news conference. The government hopes to redistribute the staff in each office and reduce the number of claimants flowing to each office, particularly in major centres.

Andras said the reorganization of the commission will free better control officers to direct their energies toward proven cases of fraud.

N-Plant . . . Just Across Strait

By ALAN FORREST
Times Staff

While British Columbians debate whether nuclear power plants are safe, Washington State is poised to begin constructing them just across the Strait of Juan de Fuca from Victoria.

The privately-owned Puget Power and Light company is about ready to begin construction of a nuclear power plant at Sedro Woolley, south of Bellingham and less than 50 miles due east of Victoria.

The government corporation, Washington Public Power Supply System, has announced it will construct two nuclear plants at Aberdeen, just a few miles down the coast on the Olympic Peninsula.

The Washington nuclear construction program follows a pilot project in nuclear power at Hanford in southeastern Washington near Richland.

James Klein, spokesman for the government power corporation, said the Hanford experiment has proved to Washington's satisfaction that nuclear power is both safe and necessary.

"We would have been in difficulties this past winter without the Hanford nuclear plant," he said.

"We had a power shortage in Seattle when the Columbia River went down. Fortunately we were able to divert surplus power from Hanford to the Seattle area."

Hanford is the only nuclear power plant operating in the U.S. Pacific Northwest.

But it is only the beginning. Hanford has a rated capacity of 860 megawatts and plans are under way to upgrade it to 1,300 megawatts.

Boh are due to be in full operation in eight years.

In addition, construction is already under way on Hanford No. 2, a 1,100 megawatt plant to come on stream in 1977.

Across the Columbia River, Portland will get Oregon's first nuclear power plant in late 1974 or early 1975 when a 1,000 megawatt plant is completed.

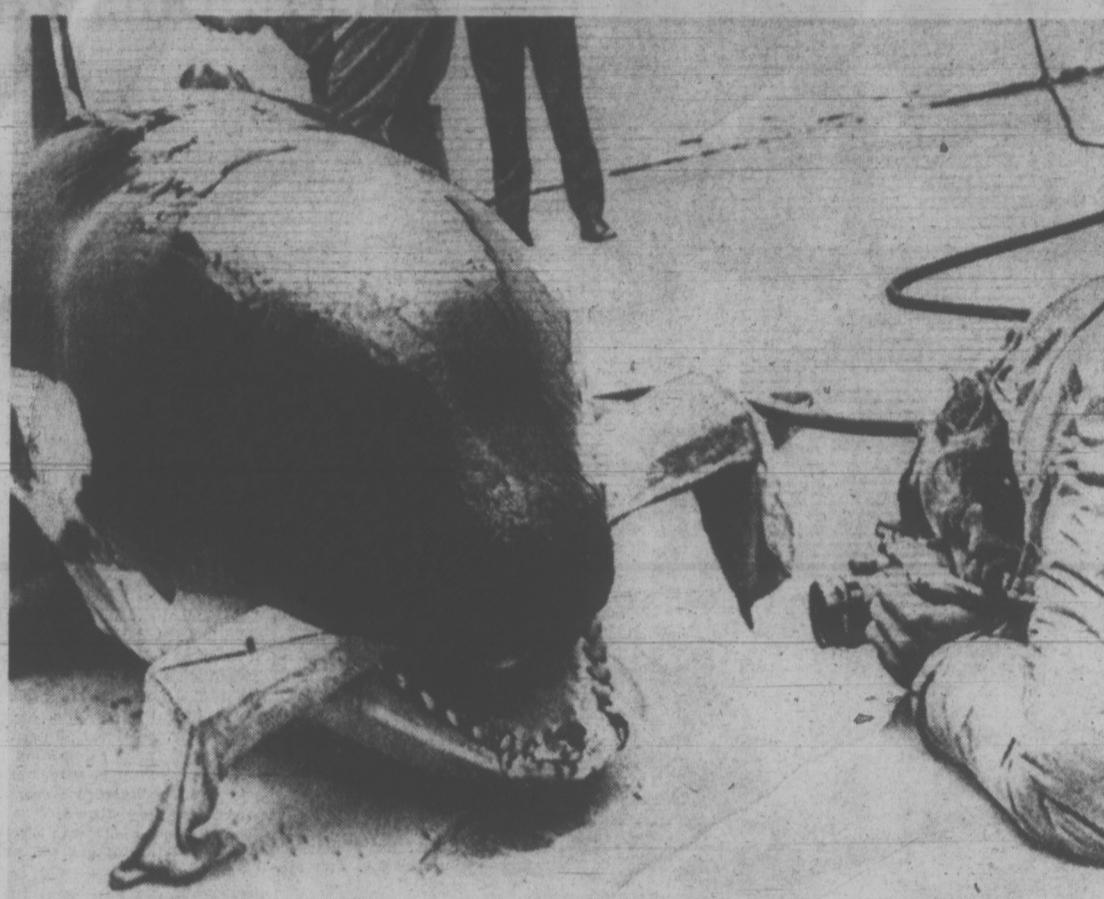

Closer to home, Washington is investigating sites for two nuclear power plants at Aberdeen, each with a capacity of 1,100 megawatts.

Both are due to be in full operation in eight years.

In nine years the nuclear power plant across the strait at Sedro Woolley is due to be in full operation.

"We feel nuclear power is safe and necessary," Klein said. "If anyone in British Columbia is interested in touring our Hanford plant they are more than welcome."

NEWS BRIEFS

MB Profit Up 100%

VANCOUVER (CP) — MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. today reported net earnings for the three months ended March 31 amounted to $17,962,981 or 86 cents a share, compared with $9,009,292 or 43 cents a share, during the same period in 1972 — an increase of 100 per cent.

Retiring chairman J. V. Clyne said sales and other income for the first quarter of 1973 totalled $271,385,000, compared with $209,421,000 in the first three months of 1972.

The biggest philosophical rift of the session stemmed from the government's avowed conviction — recurring in bill after bill — that it must have the freedom to participate directly in industry on an equity, partnership basis.

The opposition parties complained that this infringes on the hallowed tradition of free enterprise in a pioneering

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite opposition from the auto industry, the government announced today it will require 1974 cars to be designed so that the engine cannot be started unless the seat belt is buckled.

Hijacking Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — Second reading of a bill aimed at tighter security to reduce aircraft hijackings was the last thing the Commons did Wednesday before starting a 17-day Easter recess. The bill would make searching passengers and their luggage legal before they are permitted to board an aircraft.

Lottery Sets Pattern

BY WAYNE HARDING
Times Staff

The Canada Summer Games Lottery may be the prototype of regular government lotteries in B.C.

"That's the way it looks to me," says Ron Owen, marketing manager for the current lottery, the first big-stakes lottery organized in B.C.

He notes the "special interest" taken in the Canada Summer Games Lottery by the attorney-general's department.

While the government won't comment on any plans, regular government-sponsored lotteries are not inconsistent with New Democratic Party policy. Manitoba's NDP government has organized lotteries on a regular basis.

CLOSE TOUCH

"We keep in very close touch with the government," Owen says. "And they are very interested in our efforts to run the thing scrupulously."

The Canada Summer Games Lottery, which operates under a permit from the provincial government, was organized to help support this year's games which are being held in New Westminster and Burnaby.

First prize is $50,000; second prize $20,000 and third $10,000. There are also consolation prizes of $1,000 each.

Winners will be determined after the final draw is held on Aug. 9 with winners assigned horses in the 1973 Canada Summer Games Speed Handicap at Exhibition Park August 11.

ON HORSES

First, second and third prizes will go to the persons holding tickets assigned to the horses that come in in that order in the race.

Consolation prizes will go to ticket holders drawing other horses in the race.

There will also be six "early bird" draws between June 10 and July 29 for a total of $15,000. Each draw will have a first prize of $1,000, a second prize of $500 and 10 consolation prizes of $100 each.

New Westminster and Burnaby are putting up $400,000 each towards the cost of the event; the federal government is paying $800,000; and the province, $800,000. Still a deficit of between $250,000 and $300,000 is expected.

Selling 40,000 books of tickets with each book containing 12 $2 tickets, the society hopes to raise $300,000 for the games as well as $360,000 for selling organizations, $10,000 in prizes and meet its own administration costs.

WASHINGTON (WP) — The growing United States fuel shortage may lead to curtailed airline service later this year and may require restrictions on the number of flights over certain routes, airline industry sources indicated Wednesday.

In a related development a high-ranking Saudi Arabia official has told the U.S. it will not significantly expand its present oil production unless Washington changes its pro-Israel stance in the Middle East.

Vice chairman of the Civil Aerodynamics Board Witney Gilliland said Tuesday that there is a possibility that some airline flights would have to be diverted because of fuel shortages, that the CAB may reverse its policy of "excessive" route awards because of the situation, and that airline growth might be at an end.

Gilliland was speaking at the McDonnell Douglas Corp. assembly plant in Long Beach, Calif.

SERIOUS

"The air transport situation can become particularly serious as the energy crisis deepens because the air carriers — unlike most other industries — are limited to the use of kerosene-type fuels in their jet aircraft," Gilliland said.

In January, a three-day fuel shortage by one supplier, Texaco, at Kennedy International Airport in New York caused two transcontinental airlines to make non-scheduled fuel stops because they couldn't get enough fuel at the airport to make it across the country.

"We feel at some point that we may have more localized shortages similar to the one at Kennedy," a spokesman for the Air Transport Association said. "These may well be the tip of the iceberg."

He also stressed the long-term fuel problem for the airlines because there is no presently available energy alternative and advocated increased government research into new modes of airplane propulsion.

President Nixon, in abolishing the 14-year-old quotas on oil imports Wednesday, also ordered the council on environmental quality to begin a one-year study of the environmental effects of oil exploration in the Gulf of Alaska and along the Atlantic coast, where as much as 20 per cent of U.S. supplies of oil and gas might lie.

"We must work to avoid or at least minimize short-term supply shortages," President Nixon said in explaining his actions on the energy front, "while we act to expand and develop our domestic supplies in order to meet long-term energy needs."

Meanwhile, Saudi Arabian Petroleum Minister Sheikh Ahmad Zaki Yamani, one of his country's most influential leaders, told top administration and congressional leaders in Washington this week that Saudi Arabia's fulfillment of its plan to increase production from the present level of 1.7 million barrels a day to 20 million by 1980 is still a "good possibility" provided that the United States creates "the right political atmosphere."

He made it clear that he was referring specifically to U.S. policy toward Israel.

It was the first time that Saudi Arabia, the superpower of world petroleum, has publicly linked the flow of its oil to the United States with Washington's Middle East policy.

The United States today halted all mine-clearing operations in North Vietnam and a top U.S. official warned that there will be no reconstruction aid if Hanoi continues to violate peace agreements.

The North Vietnam foreign ministry labelled the mine-clearing cancellation as a "blatant violation" of the Paris agreement ending the war.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim told a news conference in Washington the mine-clearing operations were suspended "because of the failure of the other side to abide by the agreements and assurances of Paris . . ." And because of continued cease-fire violations by the other side in South Vietnam and Laos . . ."

Friedheim would not elaborate further and did not say when the mine-clearing operations were halted, but Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency monitored today in Saigon said the U.S. Navy suspended the mine sweeping Tuesday.

Friedheim made his references to cease-fire violations in Laos and South Vietnam after U.S. sources in Vientiane said American bombing in Laos halted Wednesday after two days of new air strikes there to counter Communist true violations.

Military spokesman in Saigon today reported more Communist cease-fire violations and said Communist troops carried out new attacks on two fronts — one in Hué and the other west of Saigon near the Cambodian border.

In Washington today, a high-ranking government official whom newsmen were not allowed to identify or quote directly, told a foreign policy briefing session that President Nixon had no intention at this point of asking Congress to approve reconstruction aid for North Vietnam.

U.S. ECONOMY RISES 14.3%

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported today the United States economy advanced at a rapid rate of 14.3 per cent during the first quarter of the year, with inflation soaring at a rate of six per cent.

The commerce department said the country's gross national product rose $40.6 billion from January through March to reach a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1.23 trillion.

SUITE TENANTS FACE RENT HIKE

A predicted three-mill tax increase in Victoria will have to be passed on to apartment tenants by landlords, an apartment owners' spokesman said today.

"There's no margin now for apartment owners," said realtor Wes Dickie, of the Greater Victoria Apartment Owners Association.

City finance committee chairman Ald. Tom Christie said today the city "hopes to hold" the tax increase at three mills — roughly $25 on a $25,000 home — but further budgets are pending from the Regional Board, the school board and the hospitals.

Christie said the value of a mill had risen because of big assessment jumps on business properties as a result of recent relaxation of provincial assessment limits.

Last year's increase was 1.4 mills.

Mayor Peter Pollen termed "gross irresponsibility" today's report in The Daily Colonist that predicted tax increases of three mills that could cost a $25,000 home-owner about $90 this year.

A Colonist reporter was openly cross-questioned in the middle of finance committee proceedings and outspokenly condemned by both Christie and Pollen.

Satellite Growth Towns Opposed

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Times Staff

A proposal to establish two satellite towns to absorb Greater Victoria's future growth is opposed by the Environmental Centre of Greater Victoria.

Satellite towns would have detrimental effects on the downtown area and merely become "dormitory appendages," says a special study by the centre.

If new towns are established, they should be self-contained units with their own employment opportunities.

The satellite proposal was one of five plans suggested by a land-use study prepared by the Capital Regional Board last September.

The board's study was made to provide a choice of development alternatives for southern Vancouver Island during the next 20 years.

The environmental group headed by Jack Priestman, a consulting civil engineer, includes geographers, economists, businessmen, lawyers, park experts, biologists, housewives, art critics and two professional engineers from industry.

The report's major recommendations are:

Growth should be directed as much as possible to the four core municipalities.

The existing downtown area should be developed as an attractive centre that can be enjoyed by residents and tourists.

Adequate areas of land for parks and greenbelts near urban areas should be set aside.

Growth west of Esquimalt harbor should be restricted, and any development in the Colwood-Langford area should be based on larger lot sizes in areas suitable for septic tank drainage.

One of the report's major suggestions is for an extensive greenbelt in the Highlands.

The study also advocates acquiring shoreline property.

"One of the most important environmental assets of the Capital Region is its seashore setting," the report says. "Unfortunately less than five per cent of the saltwater shoreline is within public ownership."

Municipalities are criticized for failing to provide adequate neighboring parks and playgrounds for citizens.

This lack of park planning at the municipal level results in increasing dependence on regional parks," it notes. "This is a shortsighted policy."

The city's plans to run an ambulance service out of Victoria General Hospital's emergency department by July became increasingly confused today.

SEX GADGET MAN STUDIES APPEAL

Kelly Covin is a disappointed man—he has a franchise on a sex gadget supermarket which Victoria doesn't want.

First the police told him he couldn't sell contraceptives—it's against federal law—now Victoria city council is being recommended to turn down a business licence he has applied for.

Covin now says he's going to find out what he can do to appeal today's decision by council's finance committee.

After the committee had reluctantly agreed not to turn him down outright, but to give him a hearing first, Covin commented: "It's a little cavalier."

Covin said that he felt people wanted his store because "sex today is probably the cause of more hangups than anything else."

Longmore 'Not Aware' Of Any Discrimination

Greater Victoria school superintendent A. J. Longmore says he is "not aware of any discrimination" against women in local schools.

Questioned about a recent B.C. Teachers' Federation task force report which found discrimination against women in all levels of B.C. education, Longmore said sex is never a consideration in school board hiring decisions.

"We've had women compete for administrative position," he said Wednesday. "We've interviewed these people and I guess, all things being equal, we would have chosen a woman."

There are no women principals or vice-principals in any of the district's 54 schools. Of the board's 24 top administration posts, only two are filled by women.

Two of Victoria's nine elected school trustees are women.

And, reflecting the provincial picture, only three men teach in the primary grades compared to 224 women. Men outnumber women in secondary teaching, 398 to 206.

Slightly more than half of Victoria's teachers are women.

"There's definitely general discrimination," says teacher Irene Beavis, who collected Victoria's employment figures for the BCTF task force.

"So far as I can find out through the GVTA (Greater Victoria Teacher's Association) they didn't know of any particular case of discrimination," she added.

"GVTA is also a male-dominated group," said Mrs. Beavis. "Women have come to think it's not the place for them."

The school board, she said, "hasn't done anything to encourage women" to apply for higher positions in the school system.

Longmore said the two-out-of-24 figure for women in the board administration "isn't strictly strict."

He said three of the nine people directly involved with co-ordinating education at the school board level are women.

The number of women applying for administration jobs is "not significant." Longmore added, "but there is nothing in board policy that discriminates against women."

"I can't say why fewer women apply for the jobs," he said.

The last woman principal in Victoria was Miss Pringle Heritage, long-time teacher and vice-principal at Central Junior Secondary School. She retired several years ago.

Greater Victoria school superintendant A. J. Longmore says he is "not aware of any discrimination" against women in local schools.

Many problems were raised and many later solved at a special board meeting which followed the public forum.

The main concern was where to set up the two experimental elementary schools, scheduled to open next September.

School officials explained that no other school sites were feasible and fault was found with every alternative suggestion from the floor.

SPIRIT MOVED HIM TO SELF-SERVICE

A 51-year-old man was fined $25 in provincial court Wednesday for taking the term "self-service liquor store"—literally.

Henry Lustig, 327 Esquimalt, admitted helping himself to a bottle of vodka and taking a few swigs at the back of the Courtney Street liquor store April 17.

"I've heard of self-service liquor stores before, but this is ridiculous," said William Ostler after Lustig pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance by being drunk.

Lustig testified he had gone into the store to buy a bottle of wine but the temptation was too much when he found the vodka bottle lying open on the floor in one of the aisles.

The plane, with 94 passengers aboard, opted for a Vancouver landing in case it had to go in wheels-up on the field of fire-fighting foam, but as the pilot approached Sea Island and pushed the landing gear buttons, the system functioned normally.

He landed at Vancouver for a maintenance check and the passengers transferred to two Viscounts for the flight to Victoria.

In another 10 days Viscounts will make their last Vancouver-Victoria crossings for Air Canada, ending a 20-year career for the world's most successful turbine-powered commercial aircraft.

Home Care Plan To Be Expanded

Home care programs designed to get suitable patients out of hospital sooner and cared for in their homes with assistance—will be expanded in B.C., Health Minister Dennis Cooley said Wednesday.

Such programs are already operating in Victoria as well as Coquitlam, New Westminster and Prince George.

They are to be started between June and September in metropolitan Vancouver, Surrey-Delta, Vernon and Prince George, Cooley said.

Home care offers a number of advantages by providing co-ordinated assistance for patients at home through nursing, home-making and other services, all paid for by the province.

It makes hospital beds available sooner to meet lengthy waiting lists. It also saves money because acute care beds cost about $70 a day to service and assistance in the home can be provided much cheaper.

Cooley said many patients make much better progress in their home environment.

Home care is only utilized where patients agree and their doctors recommend it.

Permit System For Fires Ends

Victorians don't need to get a permit for home fires in any time of the year anymore, although summer fires remain illegal.

In a rare instance of red tape-cutting, the city of Victoria is in the process of making private property bonfires subject to the discretion of property owners.

However, bonfires on beaches remain illegal.

The home fires must be for the purpose of burning garden refuse, leaves and foliage only.

And it will remain illegal to light a bonfire in the city between June 1 and Aug. 31. Advertisements will be placed about the new measures.

The parents argued persistently that a regular, operating school should not be disrupted for an experiment.

The school board as well as the 'L' and 'M' parents concurred and the special board meeting voted to assign Ken Burn's 'M' school to Braefoot Annex and George Olson's 'L' school to Blanshard Annex.

School officials explained that no other school sites were feasible and fault was found with every alternative suggestion from the floor.

They were the problem of numbers.

A delegation of enthusiastic 'L' parents said their problem was that too many people wanted to enroll in their school.

Several school trustees and parents felt all interested parents should be accommodated at the schools while the board administration repeatedly pointed out the problems of timing and the need to set enrollment limits so school staffs can be hired before it is too late.

Shouting and boing from the floor quickly defeated the idea of a lottery.

But suggestions of "first come first serve" versus personal interviews and problems such as "two kids in a family" and "what happens to the working mother" added fuel to the heated debate and decision was left for school committees to decide.

The confusion increased, however, and even school board officials were baffled when the problem of registration was discussed.

The procedural monster grew and grew until district superintendent A. J. Longmore reassured the parents:

"If we trap you into our 'administrivia' — we'll get you out."

Trustee Lavinia Greenwood raised one last problem: what should the schools be the least of their problems.

THREE MILLION GALLONS MISSING

FORT ST. JOHN (CP) — RCMP are investigating the theft of at least three million gallons of petroleum from the Pacific Petroleum plant at Taylor, 11 miles south of here.

Walter Pesehn, plant manager, said he became suspicious in September and contacted police.

Since then, he said, two undercover police officers have been conducting investigations. Last week, police moved in on a number of petroleum bulk dealers, service stations and trucking firms and seized records.

Police have confirmed an investigation was conducted and records were seized. No charges have yet been laid, but an RCMP source said arrests may come within 10 days.

Thefts are believed to have been conducted over the past five to 10 years and could involve as much as seven million gallons of various fuels.

The plant at Taylor is the prime processing plant in gas and oil-producing northeastern B.C.

Surgery Slated For UIC

Ottawa (CP) — Minister Robert Andras Thursday announced major surgery for the much-maligned Unemployment Insurance Commission — a $14-million facelift to be implemented within the next six months. (See also Page 11.)

The reorganization, Andras said at a news conference, will decentralize the commission's operations, opening up 18 new UIC offices and expanding the facilities of 90 of the existing 298, without increasing the commission's staff.

The plan is designed to offer "more personal, sensitive and immediate" service to claimants and to inform people early of their rights and obligations under the program. To do this, Andras said, the UIC will divide the workload of each office so that one insurance officer is responsible for the whole of a claimant's contact with the UIC — from his application for benefits to its approval or rejection.

A system of emergency payments, available to claimants who might be forced to seek welfare assistance if obliged to wait for a regular cheque, is planned for by the end of August.

MB Profit Up 100%

VANCOUVER (CP) — MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. today reported net earnings for the three months ended March 31 amounted to $17,962,981 or 86 cents a share, compared with $9,009,292 or 43 cents a share, during the same period in 1972 — an increase of 100 per cent.

Retiring chairman J. V. Clyne said sales and other income for the first quarter of 1973 totalled $271,385,000, compared with $209,421,000 in the first three months of 1972.

Satellite Growth Towns Opposed

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Times Staff

A proposal to establish two satellite towns to absorb Greater Victoria's future growth is opposed by the Environmental Centre of Greater Victoria.

Satellite towns would have detrimental effects on the downtown area and merely become "dormitory appendages," says a special study by the centre.

If new towns are established, they should be self-contained units with their own employment opportunities.

The satellite proposal was one of five plans suggested in a land-use study prepared by the Capital Regional Board last September.

The board's study was made to provide a choice of development alternatives for southern Vancouver Island during the next 20 years.

The environmental group headed by Jack Priestman, a consulting civil engineer, includes geographers, economists, businessmen, lawyers, park experts, biologists, housewives, art critics and two professional engineers from industry.

The report's major recommendations are:

Growth should be directed as much as possible to the four core municipalities.

The existing downtown area should be developed as an attractive centre that can be enjoyed by residents and tourists.

Adequate areas of land for parks and greenbelts near urban areas should be set aside.

Growth west of Esquimalt harbor should be restricted, and any development in the Colwood-Langford area should be based on larger lot sizes in areas suitable for septic tank drainage.

One of the report's major suggestions is for an extensive greenbelt in the Highlands.

The Highland district represents a remarkable opportunity to reserve and protect the last large tract of recreational land within 20 minutes of downtown Victoria," the report said. "Any steps taken now toward preservation of these landscape values can have only beneficial results for all residents of the Capital Region."

The report warns that the Highlands is now on the threshold of development. "Land owners and developers are subdividing to the allowable 10-acre minimum requirement and have begun to make inroads into some of the large undeveloped areas."

The study also advocates acquiring shoreline property.

"One of the most important environmental assets of the Capital Region is its seashore setting," the report says. "Unfortunately less than five per cent of the saltwater shoreline is within public ownership."

Municipalities are criticized for failing to provide adequate neighboring parks and playlots for citizens.

"This lack of park planning at the municipal level results in increasing dependence on regional parks," it notes. "This is a shortsighted policy."

SEX GADGET MAN STUDIES APPEAL

Kelly Covin is a disappointed man—he has a franchise on a sex gadget supermarket which Victoria doesn't want.

First the police told him he couldn't sell contraceptives—it's against federal law—now Victoria city council is being recommended to turn down a business licence he has applied for.

Covin now says he's going to find out what he can do to appeal today's decision by council's finance committee.

After the committee had reluctantly agreed not to turn him down outright, but to give him a hearing first, Covin commented: "It's a little cavalier."

Covin said that he felt people wanted his store because "sex today is probably the cause of more hangups than anything else."

City Rejects Skidroad Aid

It was important the centre be located downtown near the areas frequented by the alcoholics, thus the rent was high," the report said.

The centre was due to have closed at this date, and the co-ordinator was not available for comment.

Golf Course Enlarged

Saanich has increased Cedar Hill golf course with the purchase of 1.37 acres from CHEK-TV.

Council approved spending $70,660 for this and additions to two other municipal parks.

The property bought from the TV station is at the end of Epsom and requires the closing of a short road allowance and creating another access to the company's property.

Cedar Hill park now totals 134.67 acres.

Knockan Hill Park is nearly doubled by the addition of 8.7 acres.

The land and a house on West Burns Road was bought for $38,000 and brings Knockan Hill Park to 20.1 acres, with the former owner given life tenure.

Home Care Plan To Be Expanded

make much better progress in their home environment.

Home care is only utilized where patients agree and their doctors recommend it.

Permit System For Fires Ends

Victorians don't need to get a permit for home incinerators at any time of the year although summer fires remain illegal.

In a rare instance of red tape cutting, Victoria is in the process of making private property bonfires subject to the discretion of the property owners.

However, bonfires on beaches remain illegal.

The home fires must be for the purpose of burning garden refuse, leaves or foliage only.

And it will remain illegal to burn trash in the city between June 1 and Aug. 31. Advertisements will be placed about the new measures.

Longmore 'Not Aware' Of Any Discrimination

Greater Victoria school superintendent A. J. Longmore says he is "not aware of any discrimination" against women in local schools.

Questioned about a recent B.C. Teachers' Federation task force report which found discrimination against women in all levels of B.C. education, Longmore said sex is never a consideration in school board hiring decisions.

"We've had women compete for administrative positions," he said Wednesday. "We've interviewed these people and I guess, all things being equal, we would have chosen a woman."

There are no women principals or vice-principals in any of the district's 54 schools. Of the board's 24 top administration posts, only two are filled by women.

Two of Victoria's nine elected school trustees are women. And, reflecting the provincial picture, only three men teach in the primary grades compared to 224 women. Men outnumber women in secondary teaching, 398 to 206.

Slightly more than half of Victoria's teachers are women.

"There's definitely general discrimination," says teacher Irene Beavis, who collected Victoria's employment figures for the BCTF task force.

"So far as I can find out through the GVTA (Greater Victoria Teacher's Association) they didn't know of any particular case of discrimination," she added.

"GVTA is also a male-dominated group," said Mrs. Beavis. "Women have come to think it's not the place for them."

The school board, she said, "hasn't done anything to encourage women" to apply for higher positions in the school system.

Longmore said the two-out-of-24 figure for women in the board administration "isn't strictly fair."

He said three of the nine people directly involved with co-ordinating education at the school board level are women.

The number of women applying for administration jobs is "not significant," Longmore added, "but there is nothing in board policy that discriminates against women."

"I can't say why fewer women apply for the jobs," he said.

The last woman principal in Victoria was Miss Olive Hefford, long-time teacher and vice-principal at Central Junior Secondary School. She retired several years ago.

SPIRIT MOVED HIM TO SELF-SERVICE

A 51-year-old man was fined $25 in provincial court Wednesday for taking the term "self-service liquor store" literally.

Henry Lustig, 52, of Esquimalt, admitted helping himself to a bottle of vodka and taking a few swigs at the back of the Courtney Street liquor store April 17.

"I've heard of self-service liquor stores before, but this is ridiculous," said William Ostler after Lustig pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance by being drunk.

Lustig testified he had gone into the store to buy a bottle of wine but the temptation was too much when he found the vodka bottle lying open on the floor in one of the aisles.

The plane, with 94 passengers aboard, opted for a Vancouver landing in case it had to go in wheels-up on a bed of fire-fighting foam, but as the pilot approached Sea Island and pushed the landing gear buttons, the system functioned normally.

He landed at Vancouver for a maintenance check and the passengers transferred to two Viscounts for the flight to Victoria.

In another 10 days Viscounts will make their last Vancouver-Victoria crossings for Air Canada, ending a 20-year career for the world's most successful turbine-powered commercial aircraft.

SPECIALS

Adventures of Don Quixote, on 7 and 12 at 9. Rex Harrison stars as the man of La Mancha. Capturing the humour and vigor of Cervantes' 17th-century classic, this film follows the adventures of the self-proclaimed knight and his squire Sancho Panza (Frank Finlay), who transform the commonplace into romance. Oscar winner Michel Legrand composed the score, rich in Spanish rhythms. (2 hours.)

Glenn Gould Plays Beethoven, on 9 at 9. Canadian pianist Glenn Gould in a 1970 concert, a bicentennial tribute to Beethoven. (60 mins.)

MOVIES

Monday

The Good Die Young (xxx), on 4 at 9:30. Four men from assorted backgrounds plan a daring robbery in this suspenseful British-made drama starring Richard Basehart, John Ireland, Laurence Harvey and Gloria Graham.

The Garment Jungle (xxx), on 13 at noon. A forceful 1957 drama about the control by the rackets of the garment industry in a big city starring Lee J. Cobb, Kerwin Matthews and Gia Scala.

David Copperfield (xxx), on 6 and 8 at 12:45. An English-made 1970 film version of the Dickens classic about a young man's adventures in 19th-century Britain starring Robin Phillips and Susan Hampshire.

Saskatchewan (xx), on 7 at 8:30. A fast-moving 1954 outdoor tale about the Canadian mounties contending with Indian uprisings in early Saskatchewan, starring Alan Ladd and Shelley Winters.

633 Squadron (xx), on 12 at 7. Cliff Robertson and George Chakiris star in this English-made 1964 story of the Norwegian Resistance during the Second World War.

The Long Grey Line (xxx), on 13 at 7. Tyrone Power gives one of his best performances as the Irish immigrant who finds a home and love at West Point in this 1955 drama that co-stars Maureen O'Hara. Well-directed by John Ford.

The Country Girl (xxxx), on 11 at 8. A fine 1954 film version of Clifford Odets' play about a performer wallowing in self-pity who has a chance to make a comeback. Grace Kelly won an Oscar for her performance as the wife, but Bing Crosby is no less effective as the alcoholic actor.

The Bliss of Mrs. Blossom (xxx), on 4 at 9. Expert comedy performances highlight this English-made 1968 comedy about a London housewife who keeps a lover in the attic — for nearly four years! Cast includes Shirley MacLaine, Richard Attenborough and James Booth.

Isadora (xxx), on 5 at 9 (Part 1). Vanessa Redgrave's excellent performance as the free-spirited dance innovator Isadora Duncan won her an Oscar nomination. Released in 1968 as The Loves of Isadora, the film centres on the uninhibited behavior — on and off stage — that outraged Miss Duncan's post-Victorian audiences. (Part 2 of this 177-minute long movie will be shown at 8 p.m., same channel, tomorrow evening.)

Bedevilled (xx), on 7 and 12 at 11:30. An American divinity student shelters a cafe singer fleeing from gangsters in this 1955 drama that stars Anne Baxter and Steve Forrest.

Exclusive (xx), on 2 at 11:30. A crooked politician purchases a newspaper and threatens to publish vicious lies in this 1937 drama that stars Fred MacMurray and Frances Farmer.

Say One For Me (xx), on 4 at midnight. Bing Crosby, Debbie Reynolds and Robert Wagner star in this 1959 musical cal about a priest in New York's theatre district who helps put together a benefit show.

The Lost One (xxx), on 6 at midnight. An excellent Italian-made 1945 production of Verdi's opera, La Traviata.

The Trouble With Angels (xx), on 8 at midnight. An un-sophisticated 1966 comedy about two highly-spirited young students at a girl's convent-school (Hayley Mills and June Harding), who keep things hopping for the understanding Mother Superior (Rosalind Russell) and her staff of bewildered Sisters.

A SCENE FROM the mammoth production of the Russian produced version of Tolstoy's War and Peace to be shown on four consecutive Saturdays starting April 21 at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 2 and 6.

CBC-TV Presents War and Peace

One of the world's great love stories comes to Canadian television when CBC-TV presents in four episodes the Russian-produced film version of Tolstoy's War and Peace, Saturdays, 8:30 p.m., starting April 21. Made at a cost of one hundred million dollars, War and Peace follows the lives of four Russian families against the background of Napoleon's invasion of that country.

The Mosfilm production faithfully portrays the period from the time of the French Emperor's early victories to his eventual defeat by a combination of the spirit of the Russian people and the savage northern winter.

A number of countries co-operated in the making of the film, the most elaborate movie ever produced. In one battle scene alone, 120,000 soldiers (French and Russian) were used. One hundred indoor sets and over two hundred outdoor sets were built. Artifacts from the collections of 40 museums were used to add to the authenticity of the palaces and drawing rooms shown in the picture.

Additional props were produced by 47 factories, over a five-year period.

The epic drama tells the story of the ill-fated love of young Natasha Rostova for Prince Andrei Bolkonsky. The Prince loses his life in the film's major battle scene, and Natasha, alone and dejected, turns to Pierre, her old childhood friend. Together they attempt to pick up the threads of their shattered lives.

Produced originally in Russian, the film has been dubbed into English and is a prime example of the art of dubbing, almost defying detection.

CBC-TV will present War and Peace in four episodes on consecutive Saturdays: April 21 — Natasha and Andrei; April 28 — The Battle of Austerlitz; May 5 — Natasha and Pierre, and May 12 — The Burning of Moscow.

NOT ALL AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSIONS ARE "CREATED EQUAL" SOME NEED MORE ATTENTION THAN OTHERS . . .

It depends on the way you drive, the way you treat your car. All drivers are different. Be smart. Avoid unexpected transmission trouble by having a regular check.

Take Advantage of Lo-Cost FREE AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSION DIAGNOSIS

What Do We Do?

- 1 Road Test — A qualified technician checks the shift points at various speeds, and the progressive action in forward and reverse.
- 2 Oil Test — Oil pan is removed for visual inspection of level and discoloration, type and amount of residue in pan or on filter.
- 3 Recommendation — 30% do not require attention; 50% we recommend service outlined by the vehicle's manufacturer; 20% we recommend repairs and give a written estimate.
- 4 Mechanical Work — You decide whether you will have repairs, overhauling, or install an exchange. All work is done by factory-trained personnel.
- 5 Written Guarantee — 4,000 miles or 90 days 100% parts and labor, any place in North America. Plus free service guarantee for 12,000 miles or 12 months, valid at any of our 22 centres in Western Canada.
- 6 Payment — We take Cheques, Charge, Cash. Also 6, 12 and 14-month payment plan.

Actor on the Mend After Heart Attack

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD — Cliff Arquette is making a courageous comeback for a senior citizen who suffered a heart attack and a paralyzing stroke within a two-week period last April.

He is back on The Hollywood Squares now in a camouflaged wheel chair which is pushed onto a ramp by stagehands before the show is filmed.

"I could feel the heart attack coming on," Arquette recalled. "I was driving on the freeway and prayed I could find a police car. Sure enough, I saw the cops pulled off to the side of the road and I stopped right in front of them."

The officers jumped from their cruiser in time for Cliff to tell them he was having a heart attack. Within 10 minutes he was in an intensive care unit of a hospital.

A few days later he suffered the stroke which left him without the use of his left leg and arm. Gradually, his strength returned. At the moment Cliff is learning to walk again. He uses a cane.

To simplify his life the comedian has moved from his large home in the San Francisco valley to a one-room bachelor apartment near NBC in Burbank.

Two full-time nurses attend Arquette's needs. The day nurse cooks his meals and keeps the apartment shipshape. A male nurse spends the nights with the comedian

CLIFF ARQUETTE
alias Charlie Weaver

who made Charlie Weaver from Mount Idy a classic American homespun philosopher.

The furnished apartment is only four blocks from the studio where Cliff is driven by the male nurse one evening a week. All five shows are taped from about 6:30 to 11:15 p.m.

Cliff has an electrically operated bed which allows him to raise and lower himself for comfort. At the foot of the bed is a color television set which occupies much of his time.

He has rigged a Rube Goldberg contraption with his cane to turn the set off and on without having to get up.

When not watching the tube Cliff exercises his paralyzed limbs toward the day when he can throw away the cane. This summer he hopes to use the apartment swimming pool for therapy.

Before his heart attack, Arquette weighed 210 pounds. He left the hospital at 120 pounds but now is a fairly robust 147, aiming for 155.

Cliff is amazingly good natured about his plight and optimistic that he will regain full use of his arm and leg.

To break the monotony of spending most of his time in a single room, he bought a color television camera and tape deck. He tapes shows he enjoys on the tube and replays them at leisure.

He's also telling his life story for the camera, hoping one day to see it all in book form.

Divorced for 15 years, Cliff — who is 67 years old — has no plans for remarrying, although he admits romance still appeals to him.

"Let me put it this way," he says. "When I had that heart attack I thought I would see my whole life pass before my eyes. But it didn't happen. My life is 'X' rated."

Thus far Cliff has received 200,000 letters from friends and fans, all encouraging him to get back on The Hollywood Squares.

"I may have pushed it a little," he concludes, "but getting back to work was the best therapy I've had."

Disney Set for 1976

Firm production plans for The Wonderful World of Disney through the 1975-76 season were announced by Don Durbin, president, NBC Television Network, and E. Cardon Walker, president, Walt Disney Productions.

The announcement confirms production schedules of the Sunday night series for the next three seasons, covering the years 1973, 1974, 1975 and 1976. The Wonderful World of Disney begins its thirteenth year on NBC-TV next September. That date also marks the twentieth consecutive year of production for a Disney anthology series on television.

Walt Disney Productions has also extended to NBC-TV, options to broadcast the series during the 1976-77 and 1977-78 seasons.

In making the announcement, Mr. Durbin said: "We take great pride in our long and rewarding affiliation with the Disney organization and The Wonderful World of Disney series. The genius and creativity of Walt Disney and the continuing dedication of his successors to his unique and innovative ideas of quality and taste in popular entertainment have made the Disney name a household word around the world."
